INSULIN

Insulin is a hormone that allows glucose to enter the cells of the body to be used for energy. In people with diabetes, the body either does not produce enough insulin or the cells do not respond properly to the insulin that is produced. This leads to high blood sugar levels.

Types of Insulin:

- Basal Insulin: Provides a steady, low level of insulin to keep blood sugar levels stable between meals and at night.
- Bolus Insulin: Provides a rapid increase in insulin to cover meals and snacks.

Insulin Administration:

- Insulin is typically administered via subcutaneous injection.
- Common sites for injection include the abdomen, thighs, buttocks, and upper arms.
- Proper technique is crucial to avoid complications like lipohypertrophy.

NURSING INTERVENTIONS

Nurses play a critical role in the management of diabetes mellitus. Key interventions include:

- Monitoring Blood Glucose: Regularly checking blood glucose levels to identify trends and adjust treatment.
- Medication Management: Ensuring the patient takes their medication correctly and understanding potential side effects.
- Education: Teaching the patient about diabetes, its complications, and how to manage their condition.
- Support: Providing emotional support and resources for the patient and their family.

DIABETES MELLITUS (DM)

Diabetes mellitus is a chronic condition characterized by high blood sugar levels. It is caused by either the body not producing enough insulin (Type 1) or the body's cells not responding properly to insulin (Type 2).

Signs and Symptoms:

- Increased thirst and hunger
- Frequent urination
- Unexplained weight loss
- Blurred vision
- Slow-healing sores
- Frequent infections

Complications:

- Cardiovascular disease
- Kidney disease
- Neuropathy
- Retinopathy
- Foot ulcers

NURSING CARE PLAN

Assessment: Monitor blood glucose levels, assess for signs and symptoms of complications, and evaluate the patient's understanding of their condition.

Diagnosis: High blood glucose related to insulin deficiency or resistance.

Interventions:

- Monitor blood glucose levels regularly.
- Administer insulin as prescribed.
- Encourage a healthy diet and regular exercise.
- Provide education on diabetes management.
- Monitor for signs and symptoms of complications.

Evaluation: The patient maintains blood glucose levels within the target range and demonstrates understanding of their condition and management.
