Practice and Automatization in Second Language Research Yuichi Suzuki, 2023-08-28 Practice is a recurring and popular theme in language education. However, the concepts of practice and automatization have recently received renewed theoretical and practical interest and are increasingly being explored from the skill acquisition theory and cognitive psychology perspectives. In this volume, leading scholars discuss the optimal types, amounts, and schedules of practice for specific language structures and skills as well as for various types of learners and learning contexts to facilitate second language development. They illuminate how practice is instantiated for specific groups of teachers and learners in diverse institutionalized contexts such as foreign language curriculum development, intelligent computer-assisted language learning systems, task-based language teaching, and study abroad. Furthermore, original methodological syntheses of extant research on practice and automatization are presented along with guides for conducting empirical research on these topics. Practice and Automatization in Second Language Research: Perspectives from Skill Acquisition Theory and Cognitive Psychology is a valuable resource and reference for graduate students and researchers in the field of SLA and applied linguistics.

Children's Software & New Media Revue, 2003 Reading Practices with Deaf Learners Patricia L.

McAnally, Susan Rose, Stephen Patrick Quigley, 2007 This book was written specifically for professors and college students in teacher training programs for deaf education and for classroom teachers working with deaf and hard of hearing learners. It is one of the very few books on the market that focuses entirely on the hearing impaired. It consists of three sections, each one providing in-depth information on topics critical to the teaching of reading to this specific population. Section one, Foundations, contains chapters dealing with theory and research in such topics as cognition, reading, language, literary development, vocabulary, and comprehension. One chapter on ASL, English, and Reading looks at the research in the area of second language learners and discusses its application to deaf and hard of hearing students. Section two, Instructional Management, deals with instructional management and describes instructional systems and designs. These chapters look at current trends in education and how these trends apply to the education of students who are deaf and hard of hearing. Section three, Applications, focuses on specific instructional models in reading, writing, and spelling, detailing strategies that have been successfully used with deaf and hard of hearing learners. The last chapter in this section discusses assessment, giving information and examples of both formal and authentic procedures. Macworld, 2003 Houghton Mifflin Reading
