

A romantic couple stands on a dark, pebbly beach, embracing and looking out at the ocean during a vibrant sunset. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and red, with the sun low on the horizon. The water reflects the warm colors of the sky. The couple is in the lower center of the frame, with the man on the left wearing a white tank top and blue shorts, and the woman on the right wearing a long, shimmering gold dress. The overall mood is peaceful and intimate.

Elizabeth McMahon,2016-07-09 Australia is the planet's sole island continent This book argues that the uniqueness of this geography has shaped Australian history and culture including its literature Further it shows how the fluctuating definition of the island continent throws new light on the relationship between islands and continents in the mapping of modernity The book links the historical and geographical conditions of islands with their potent role in the imaginary of European colonisation It prisms apart the tangled web of geography fantasy desire and writing that has framed the Western understanding of islands their real and material conditions and their symbolic resonance from antiquity into globalised modernity The book also traces how this spatial imaginary has shaped the modern man who is imagined as being the island's natural inhabitant or mirror Importantly the book challenges these habits of thought by their relocation within larger topological and imaginary visions from islanders themselves
