Election 2007 R.J. May, Ray Anere, Nicole Haley, Katherine Wheen, 2013-09-23 Papua New Guinea's general election in 2007 attracted particular interest for several reasons. Not only did it follow what was widely acknowledged as the country's worst election ever in 2002 in which elections in six of the country's 109 electorates were declared to be failed elections, it was the first general election to be held under a new limited preferential voting system. It also followed the first full parliamentary term under the Organic Law on the Integrity of Political Parties and Candidates which had been introduced in 2001 in an attempt to strengthen political parties and create a greater degree of stability in the national parliament and was the first to embrace a whole of government approach to electoral administration through an Interdepartmental Electoral Committee. This volume provides an analysis of the 2007 election drawing on the work of a domestic monitoring team organized through the National Research Institute and several visiting scholars. It addresses key issues such as voter education, electoral administration, election security, the role of political parties, women as candidates and voters, the shift to limited preferential voting and HIV transmission and provides detailed accounts of the election in a number of open and provincial electorates. It is generally agreed that the election of 2007 was an improvement on that of 2002. But problems of electoral administration and voting behaviour remain. These are identified in this volume and recommendations made for electoral reform.

The Political Economy of Economic Reform in the Pacific Ron Duncan, 2011-07-01 Over the last several years Vanuatu has become one of the fastest growing economies in the Pacific region, driven primarily by tourism, construction and aid inflows. The achievement of strong economic growth has also occurred on the back of improved economic policy, effective fiscal management and improved environment for private sector development. While recent gains have been impressive, more remains to be done to sustain growth and ensure the benefits are distributed throughout the nation. The Government is now on a sound financial footing and is well placed to address key development issues. The report discusses options for responding to these needs with a view to helping guide public policy formulation in Vanuatu.

Government Agencies K. Verhoest, S. Van Thiel, G. Bouckaert, P. Lægreid, 2016-02-05 This book describes and compares how semi-autonomous agencies are created and governed by 30 governments. It leads practitioners and researchers through the crowded world of agencies, describing their tasks, autonomy, control and history. Evidence-based lessons and recommendations are formulated to improve agencification policies in post-NPM times.
