Michelin Fleet Solutions From selling tires to selling kilometers

Case Abstract

Michelin, a worldwide leader in the tire industry, launched in 2000 a comprehensive tire-management solution offer for large European transportation companies, called Michelin Fleet Solutions (MFS). With this new business model, the company ventured into selling kilometers – instead of selling tires. This decision moves the strongly product-driven firm into the new world of services and solutions. The shift is intuitively appealing, and it provides Michelin with an opportunity to differentiate itself in the tire business. After 3 years, however, expansion is far below expectations and profitability is terrible – despite the outside help of a strategy consulting firm. The case presents the decision point in 2003, whereby MFS's future has to be decided. Should Michelin seek to further develop this solution offer, and try to repackage the offer yet another time? Or was it just a passing fad that should be abandoned?

This case investigates the difficulties that industrial groups face when they transition from selling products to providing service. It enables participants to reflect on the following issues: What's industrial groups' rationale for moving towards solutions? What kind of business model reconfiguration does it imply? How does moving to solutions raise multiple challenges throughout the organization (e.g. in terms of sales force management, risk management, channel relationships etc.)?

¹ This case study was written by Christ Remondi, HEC 2000h and PhD Student at HEC, under the supervision of Frédéric Dabace, Director Chair of Social Business/Firms & Poverty and Wolfgang Uhlage, EDP Chair in Marketing/New Business Models in the Energy Industry, both Associate Professors at HEC Paris. The case was written as a basis for class discussion rather than to illustrate either effective or ineffective handling of an administrative situation. We would like to thank Stéphane Mauelle at Michelin for his assistance and support. Some data have been modified for reasons of confidentiality.

Enviro-management D. Keith Denton, 1994 Talk about environmentalism to many decision makers in American business today and you're likely to get a shrug or a remark about how we're doing our part. As the 21st century approaches however some of the most innovative and farsighted companies in the world are turning environmental considerations into a competitive edge. Japanese companies for instance are producing five times less waste per dollar than their American counterparts and German companies produce half the waste of U.S. companies. Among the American exceptions is 3M's Pollution Prevention Pays 3P program which has saved over 400 million since its inception. Enviro Management clearly outlines the challenges and benefits of the new green corporate thinking providing managers with a three stage process all forward thinking companies can initiate to keep in step with the times going from compliance to cost reduction to finally using pollution management as a revenue generator. Environmental managers will learn how to apply life cycle cost analysis to ecological concerns a Green Management Survey and a Pollution Wheel that you can fill out to determine what sort of pollution program exists in your company and what is needed scores of strategies and guidelines for achieving environmental profits through environmental auditing energy conservation waste management and more dozens of case studies of companies that have reduced their environmental impact while improving their bottom line a complete summary of current FTC environmental marketing guidelines and a PCEQ workplace reduction guide. The time has come to put an end to the adversarial relationship between industry and the environment. Companies are saving money reducing costs and increasing competitiveness by better management of their environmental resources literally turning green into green. Enviro Management is must reading for the environmental manager with lofty ideals and an eye on the bottom line.
