Natural Computing In Computational Finance Volume 2 Studies In Computational Intelligence:

Natural Computing in Computational Finance Anthony Brabazon, Michael O'Neill, 2009-08-29 Recent years have seen the widespread application of Natural Computing algorithms broadly defined in this context as computer algorithms whose design draws inspiration from phenomena in the natural world for the purposes of financial modelling and optimisation. A related stream of work has also seen the application of learning mechanisms drawn from Natural Computing algorithms for the purposes of agent based modelling in finance and economics. In this book we have collected a series of chapters which illustrate these two faces of Natural Computing. The first part of the book illustrates how algorithms inspired by the natural world can be used as problem solvers to uncover and optimise financial models. The second part of the book examines a number agent based simulations of financial systems. This book follows on from Natural Computing in Computational Finance Volume 100 in Springer's Studies in Computational Intelligence series which in turn arose from the success of EvoFIN 2007 the very first European Workshop on Evolutionary Computation in Finance Economics held in Valencia Spain in April 2007.

Though the reductionist approach to biology and medicine has led to several important advances further progresses with respect to the remaining challenges require integration of representation characterization and modeling of the studied systems along a wide range of spatial and time scales Such an approach intrinsically related to systems biology is poised to ultimately turn biology into a more precise and synthetic discipline paving the way to extensive preventive and regenerative medicine 1 drug discovery 20 and treatment optimization 24 A particularly appealing and effective approach to addressing the complexity of interactions inherent to the biological systems is provided by the new area of complex networks 34 30 8 13 12 Basically it is an extension of graph theory 10 focusing on the modeling representation characterization analysis and simulation of complex systems by considering many elements and their interconnections Complex networks concepts and methods have been used to study disease 17 transcription networks 5 6 4 protein protein networks 22 36 16 39 metabolic networks 23 and anatomy 40
