Hans-Jürgen Syberberg, the Film Director as Critical Thinker Xue Lan Rong, Jeremy Hilburn, 2016-12-27 Fourth wave immigration with its vast economic ethnic cultural linguistic and religious diversities have brought new dynamics into the existing social and demographic structures and added both opportunities and challenges to educational systems in North Carolina a Southern U S state with the fastest growing rate of foreign born population in the nation in 1990 2010 and unique geopolitical history This book brings together 17 scholars who have extensive experience working with immigrants in North Carolina and represent a wide range of educational expertise Together their studies illustrate the intersections between historical contexts geopolitical historical constraints structural factors power policies and laws institutions and organization cultural issues philosophies ideologies identities beliefs values and traditions and immigrant students characteristics on the development of educational practices policies reforms and resistance

Most importantly studying how North Carolina education systems and actors adapt to meet the challenges may offer valuable opportunities for researchers to understand the transformation of educational systems in other new gateway states Collectively studies in this book deconstruct the framework of the traditional hierarchical assimilation and linguisticism policies in recasting the concept of becoming Americans in the New South The authors utilize frameworks that recognize the structural barriers that disadvantage immigrants in new gateway states but also position youth families and communities as possessing and utilizing valuable resources to promote educational access and achievement In this sense this book contributes significantly to major contemporary empirical and theoretical debates relating to educating immigrant children It is our hope that this critical dialogue will continue at a national platform to promote discussion of these timely issues

Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow Roslyn Arlin Mickelson, Stephen Samuel Smith, Amy Hawn Nelson, 2017-11-14 Yesterday Today and Tomorrow provides a compelling analysis of the forces and choices that have shaped the trend toward the resegregation of public schools By assembling a wide range of contributors historians sociologists economists and education scholars the editors provide a comprehensive view of a community's experience with desegregation and economic development Here we see resegregation through the lens of Charlotte North Carolina once a national model of successful desegregation and home of the landmark Swann desegregation case which gave rise to school busing This book recounts the last forty years of Charlotte's desegregation and resegregation putting education reform in political and economic context Within a decade of the Swann case the district had developed one of the nation's most successful desegregation plans measured by racial balance and improved academic outcomes for both black and white students However beginning in the 1990s this plan was gradually dismantled Today the level of resegregation in Charlotte has almost returned to what it was prior to 1971 At the core of Charlotte's story is the relationship between social structure and human agency with an emphasis on how yesterday's decisions and actions define today's choices North Carolina Publications, 1989
