Origins Craig Schwab:

Origins Craig Schwab, 2015-12-08 Origins is the second collection of essays from Craig Schwab. The topics covered in this volume range from discussions on the state of our modern world to essays discussing music in The Desert Island Music Soundtrack and My Mother's Cuckoo Clock. The Effects of Full Moon Nights on Family Dynamics is a commentary about why many people do not get along in our society to the zany discussion about how the board game Parcheesi can remedy how we better understand terrorism. At times comical and evocative, these essays share a unique perspective on all things relevant to life in the 21st Century. Craig Schwab is the author of Something in the Neighborhood of Real, his coming of age novel about growing up in his hometown of Glendale, NY.

What Teachers Need to Know Matthew Bruce Etherington, 2017-03-31 Every generation has sought to make teaching and learning more inclusive and equitable, but pesky questions always remain such as how can teaching and learning be conducted in ways that satisfies and respects everyone? What are the parameters of an inclusive pedagogy? Who defines its principles? How should these principles be taught and by whom? And by what authority shall they be grounded? These types of thorny questions occupy the essence of educators and the authors of this book. This book is about teachers, educators, and topics related to inclusion. Teachers and educators have a lot to know, therefore the topics are broad and relevant to the times. What should teachers know about special needs, religion, and spirituality? Aboriginality, the environment, tolerance, and school choice. Although teachers have knowledge of their subject matter, knowledge alone is not sufficient. They must know and understand how people learn. A teacher must also care deeply about who they teach. And this teacher knowledge grows and changes over time as teachers become more experienced, informed, skilled, and wiser. At the same time, no teacher preparation will be sufficient because there will always be discussions that were never had and knowledge that was never shared. Time has its costs, and there is only so much a formal education can prepare someone. This book helps to satisfy a cavity in learning for teachers and educators in general.

Curriculum History Craig Kridel, 1989-09-29 This volume includes an interesting and diverse collection of conference presentations. From the historical examination of curriculum in specific schools to the biographical study of curriculum leaders to the historical analysis of influential curriculum movements and documents, the Society discusses topics that heretofore had been left unattended within the traditional area of educational history. Another conscious effort has been to provide an international perspective to the study of curriculum history. In addition, the Society has invited the elder statespersons of curriculum to discuss the formative years of the field. These papers represent the highest standards of current research in curriculum history. Co-published with the Society for the Study of Curriculum History.

moments one brother tries to accept the past while the other keeps digging for the truth A powerful tale about how modern science helps us to unravel the past Craig Schwab is the author of several books paying homage to his hometown Of Glendale NY where he has lived for the better part of his life His coming of age novel Something in the Neighborhood of Real was made a permanent part of the Louis Armstrong House Museum archives His short Story collections Glendale NY Tales from the Red Couch and U S A resonate with a unique appreciation for the American Dream      A History of Lower Macungie Township, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania Ann E.
