P. Herbert,2015-07-08 Excerpt from The House by the River The Whittakers were At Home every Wednesday No one else in Hammerton Chase was officially At Home at any time So every one went to the Whittaker s on Wednesdays There are still a few intimate corners in London where people other than the poor are positively acquainted with their neighbours And

Hammerton Chase is one of these In heartless Kensington we know no more of our neighbour than we may gather from furtive references to the Red Book and Who s Who or stealthy reconnaissances from behind the dining room curtains as he goes forth in the morning to his work and to his labour Our communication with him is limited to the throwing back over the garden wall of his children s balls aeroplanes and spears or in the lowest parts of Kensington to testy hammerings with the fire irons towards the close of his musical evenings Overt deliberate avoidable social intercourse with any person living in the same street or the same block of mansions is a thing unknown About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Brink,2015-07-18 Excerpt from Down the River I had dreams Of what was going to be When I left the country A girl For the City Down the River I was Glad to get away Away to the noise of voices Away to the clatter of crowds Making you feel it was an old round dance You was in Away to the singing whispering murmuring Of many lights were You never never could be lonely About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

London River (Classic Reprint) H. M. Tomlinson,2015-07-08 Excerpt from London River It begins on the north side of the City at Poverty Corner It begins imperceptibly and very likely is no more than what a native knows is there It does not look like a foreshore It looks like another of the byways of the capital There is nothing to distinguish it from the rest of Fenchurch Street You will not find it in the Directory for its name is only a familiar bearing used by seamen among themselves If a wayfarer came upon it from the west he might stop to light a pipe as well there as anywhere and pass on guessing nothing of what it is and of its memories And why should he London is built of such old shadows and while we are here casting our own there is not much time to turn and question what they fall upon Yet if some unreasonable doubt a suspicion that he was being watched made a stranger hesitate at that corner he might begin to feel that London there was as different from Bays water and Clapham as though deep water intervened About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of
