Multiple Approaches to Intelligent Systems Ibrahim F. Imam, Yves Kodratoff, Ayman El-Dessouki, Moonis Ali, 2004-05-19

We never create anything We discover and reproduce The Twelfth International Conference on Industrial and Engineering Applications of Artificial Intelligence and Expert Systems has a distinguished theme It is concerned with bridging the gap between the academic and the industrial worlds of Artificial Intelligence AI and Expert Systems The academic world is mainly concerned with discovering new algorithms approaches and methodologies however the industrial world is mainly driven by profits and concerned with producing new products or solving customers problems Ten years ago the artificial intelligence research gap between academia and industry was very broad Recently this gap has been narrowed by the emergence of new fields and new joint research strategies in academia Among the new fields which contributed to the academic industrial convergence are knowledge representation machine learning searching reasoning distributed AI neural networks data mining intelligent agents robotics pattern recognition vision applications of expert systems and others It is worth noting that the end results of research in these fields are usually products rather than empirical analyses and theoretical proofs Applications of such technologies have found great success in many domains including fraud detection internet service banking credit risk and assessment telecommunication etc Progress in these areas has encouraged the leading corporations to institute research funding programs for academic institutes Others have their own research laboratories some of which produce state of the art research

Constraint Programming and Large Scale Discrete Optimization Eugene C. Freuder, 2001 The proceedings of the September 1998 workshop deals with the application of constraint programming to problems of combinatorial optimization and industrial practice covering general techniques scheduling problems and software methodology The eight papers discuss using global constraints for local search multithreaded constraint programming employee scheduling mission scheduling on orbiting satellites sports scheduling and the main results of the CHIC 2 project on large scale constraint optimization No index c Book News Inc Handbook of Constraint Programming Francesca Rossi, Peter van Beek, Toby Walsh, 2006-08-18 Constraint programming is a powerful paradigm for solving combinatorial search problems that draws on a wide range of techniques from artificial intelligence computer science databases programming languages and operations research Constraint programming is currently applied with success to many domains such as scheduling planning vehicle routing configuration networks and bioinformatics The aim of this handbook is to capture the full breadth and depth of the constraint programming field and to be encyclopedic in its scope and coverage While there are several excellent books on constraint programming such books necessarily focus on the main notions and techniques and cannot cover also extensions applications and languages The handbook gives a reasonably complete coverage of all these lines of work based on constraint programming so that a reader can have a rather precise idea of the whole field and its potential Of course each line of work is dealt with in a survey like style where some details may be neglected in favor of coverage However the extensive bibliography of each chapter will help the interested readers to find suitable sources for the missing details Each chapter of the handbook is intended to be a self contained survey of a topic and is written by one or more authors who are leading researchers in the area The intended audience of the handbook is researchers graduate students higher year undergraduates and practitioners who wish to learn about the state of the art in constraint programming No prior knowledge about the field is necessary to be able to read the chapters and gather useful knowledge Researchers from other fields should find in this handbook an effective way to learn about constraint programming and to possibly use some of the constraint programming concepts and techniques in their work thus providing a means for a fruitful cross fertilization among different research areas The handbook is organized in two parts The first part covers the basic foundations of constraint programming including the history the notion of constraint propagation basic search methods global constraints tractability and computational complexity and important issues in modeling a problem as a constraint problem The second part covers constraint languages and solver several useful extensions to the basic framework such as interval constraints structured domains and distributed CSPs and successful application areas for constraint programming Covers the whole field of constraint programming Survey style chapters Five chapters on applications

Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1947 Optimization Software Class Libraries Stefan Voß,David L. Woodruff,2005-12-17 Optimization problems in practice are diverse and evolve over time giving rise to requirements both for ready to use optimization software packages and for optimization software libraries which provide more or less adaptable building blocks for application specific software systems In order to apply optimization methods to a new type of problem corresponding models and algorithms have to be coded so that they are accessible to a computer One way to achieve this step is the use of a modeling language. Such modeling systems provide an excellent interface between models and solvers but only for a limited range of model types in some cases for example linear due in part to limitations imposed by the solvers. Furthermore while modeling systems especially for heuristic search are an active research topic it is still an open question as to whether such an approach may be generally successful. Modeling languages treat the solvers as a black box with numerous controls. Due to variations for example with respect to the pursued objective or specific problem properties dressing real world problems often requires special purpose methods. Thus we are faced with the difficulty of efficiently adapting and applying appropriate methods to these problems. Optimization software libraries are intended to make it relatively easy and cost effective to incorporate advanced planning methods in application specific software systems. A general classification provides a distinction between callable packages numerical libraries and component libraries.

Constraint Solving Over Multi-valued Logics Francisco Azevedo, 2003 Systems are subject to faults in their components affecting their overall behaviour. In a black box system such faults only become apparent in the output when appropriate inputs are given which poses a number of satisfaction and optimization problems regarding both testing and diagnosing. This work addresses such problems developing models with multi valued logics that it formalizes and generalizes to multiple faults. Such logics extend Boolean logic by encoding dependencies on faults thus allowing the modelling of an arbitrary number of diagnostic theories. The effectiveness of constraint solving over finite domains and sets is shown on several problems.
