Parental Homework Help:

Homework, Learning and Academic Success: The Role of Family and Contextual Variables Antonio Valle, Susana Rodríguez, Pedro Rosário, Mar Lorenzo Moledo, 2020-02-24 The main purpose of this Research Topic is to analyze and identify the main family and contextual variables that are involved in the process of carrying out homework This will require studying the role played by teachers students and families in order to ensure that schoolwork is a useful learning tool Although the role of the student is obviously crucial in homework research has focused on the cumulative time spent by the student carrying out homework However the time spent on homework is not in itself evidence of the student s involvement nor is time spent indicative of quality time Indeed an excess of time can sometimes denote low competence in a field of knowledge while spending less time on homework could be indicative of high competence It is more likely that a high dedication of time spent on homework reflects high motivation or comprehension deficits rather than commitment to learning or academic motivation In tandem with the role of the student teachers as responsible for prescribing homework assignments for students also become central players in the process of completing homework assignments The decisions that teachers make about homework prescriptions and the amount and type of tasks they set will determine to a large extent the quality of the homework process including the student s motivation and the student s level of engagement with homework Furthermore the fact that homework is useful interesting and motivating for students will depend on how the teacher prescribes those tasks and the connection established with classroom learning Teacher feedback also acquires particular relevance for this point by helping the students to accurately estimate the quality of their progress and overcome the difficulties they may have encountered in carrying out their homework Lastly the effectiveness of teacher feedback depends on its contribution to the student s educational progress and how that student will perform in the future In addition to the student who performs the task and the teacher who prescribes and corrects it we must not lose sight of parents role Although there are discrepancies regarding the role that parents play in relation to homework it is evident that their implication has important consequences not only on the final result of those tasks but also on the very process of carrying them out Everything seems to indicate that the family environment and more specifically the support and feedback provided by parents is a factor that can determine the involvement of students in school duties In this way providing emotional support encouraging children to get involved can contribute positively to improving their motivation and interest in the performance of homework The objective of this Research Topic is to provide researchers and professionals in psychology and education settings with some of the most recent empirical evidence regarding the homework process its prescription and correction Overall we aim to cease making homework a source of conflict and controversy at the socio educational level in order to provide useful instruments for improving the quality of student learning This work was developed with the financing of the research projects EDU2013 44062 P MINECO EDU2017 82984 P MEIC

The Role of Social Inequality in Parent Engagement Max

Antony-Newman,2026-01-01 This book highlights how social inequality shapes parent engagement from resources available to parents and parenting logics to school responses to families and their engagement It also provides multiple solutions that can help shift parent engagement from a source of inequality to an opportunity for social justice in education The book embraces families funds of knowledge and advocates for family centric rather than school centric parent engagement Parents experiences of engagement at home in school and in the community are inextricably tied to social class race gender and immigration status which are addressed in this collection It draws on a rich array of theoretical frameworks and adopts a critical lens to the study of parent engagement in early years K 12 schools and in transition to higher education The book brings together authors from North America Europe Asia and Australia and will be of interest to teachers school administrators policymakers and researchers

Parental Involvement and Social Background in Canada and Germany Imogen Feld,2018 Results of the Progress in International Reading Literacy Study 2011 PIRLS 2011 illustrate yet again that the association between reading achievement of fourth graders and social background in Germany is high compared to the OECD country mean This relation is less pronounced for the Canadian Provinces that are participating in PIRLS 2011 The present study conducts a comparative analysis between Germany and the participating Canadian Provinces concerning the association between parental involvement social background and reading achievement This direct country comparison is extended by conducting analyses on performance groups as well as on differences between the Canadian provinces Quebec and Ontario The approach of the current study is to use general results of large scale assessment data to identify differences between countries and groups and to provide a more in depth analysis of the data A broad literature review helps to interpret the results more accurately taking additional information about the country contexts into account Dr Imogen Feld Studium der Soziologie an der Philipps Universit t Marburg 2016 Promotion an der Universit t Hamburg seit 2012 wissenschaftliche Mitarbeiterin im Arbeitsbereich Evaluation von Bildungssystemen in der Fakult t Erziehungswissenschaft an der Universit t Hamburg Forschungsschwerpunkte Soziale Disparit ten elterliche Eingebundenheit im Schulkontext Citizenship Education und international vergleichende Erziehungswissenschaft Imogen Feld studied sociology at the Philipps University Marburg She received her PhD from the Faculty of Education of the University of Hamburg She worked for several years in the working group Evaluation of Educational Systems An Examination of Parents' Socioeconomic Background, Stress and Value of Homework as Predictors of Quality of Homework Involvement Elif Wonders,2018 How parents help children with homework has important implications for academic outcomes Research on the impact of parents socioeconomic background SEB on quality of homework involvement QHI is inconclusive The present study replicated methods used by Dumont Trautwein Nagy and Nagengast 2014 to examine immigration status occupational status and education level as predictors of parents QHI Dumont et al 2014 employed Self Determination Theory as the theoretical framework in creating a student report quality of parental homework involvement measure with parental control structure and responsiveness as the scales In the present study the QHI measure was further developed and adapted into a parent report questionnaire to test Dumont et al s 2014 findings in a younger elementary aged sample of 81 students In addition to examining SEB variables as predictors of QHI scales parental stress and parental value of homework were also evaluated as predictors The present study replicated Dumont et al s 2014 findings as multiple regression analyses revealed indices of SEB were not significant predictors of QHI scales In support of the present studies hypotheses linear regression analyses revealed higher levels of stress and viewing homework as valuable predicted greater levels of parental control and parental responsiveness respectively Hence parental stress and value of homework play a more important role in influencing QHI than parents education occupation and immigration status Findings suggest parents provide higher quality homework support when their own psychological needs are addressed Interventions aimed at facilitating students homework experience should support the psychological needs of those providing the homework support Keywords homework involvement parental stress socioeconomic background

This book identifies some of the aspirations and concerns of Maori parents for and about their children's education. It provides valuable insights which may contribute to shaping better home school relationships for Maori parents and children. The parents in the study wanted their children to have a better education than they had and expressed a strong wish to be involved in their child's schooling. The key factor is school outreach. When teachers reach out into the community showing their respect for the relationships and activities which matter for Maori parents and their children, partnerships with parents appear to be more readily achieved. How well Maori children do at school is strongly linked to how well parents and children relate to school staff.
