He was a contemporary of Husserl, Frege, Mach, and Russell, who were either originally or physicists except Meinong. Meinong was a historian, mathematicians, and always a philosopher who became increasingly interested in experimental psychology under the influence of Franz Brentano. He as each of his contemporaries developed his own philosophy. It grew in a profound fashion into a very rich realism which was curiously enough based on a staunch empirical attitude. Of all these philosophers, Meinong and Husserl were most closely associated; both of them were students of Brentano and dealt each with his own philosophical tools with the same subject matter presentations and their objects. Meinong concerned himself in short critical notes with Husserl's phenomenology that is the first volume of Ideas which was translated by W. R. Boyce Gibson.
