The Meme Machine Susan J. Blackmore, 2000-03-16 Humans are extraordinary creatures with the unique ability among animals to imitate and so copy from one another ideas habits skills behaviours inventions songs and stories These are all memes a term first coined by Richard Dawkins in 1976 in his book The Selfish Gene Memes like genes are replicators and this enthralling book is an investigation of whether this link between genes and memes can lead to important discoveries about the nature of the inner self Confronting the deepest questions about our inner selves with all our emotions memories beliefs and decisions Susan Blackmore makes a compelling case for the theory that the inner self is merely an illusion created by the memes for the sake of replication

Urban Legends Nick Harding,2005 To many urban tales are nothing more than stories told with the express aim of provoking a frisson of fear in the listener But is there something working at a deeper level In this book Nick Harding sets out to describe a host of urban legends suggesting that we should not dismiss them purely as nonsense Mind Shapes Alan R. Kahn,Kris Austen Radcliffe,2005-03-30 In our everyday encounters we are continuously challenged by people who think and respond in ways different from ourselves Each one of us pays attention to different aspects of life interprets experiences differently understands certain issues better than others communicates with differing styles and uses different criteria for judging and believing others Parents of a family with several children are usually amazed by the diverse ways in which the children develop Managers are confounded by the unexpected misunderstandings among themselves and those they manage Educators find it difficult to account for the broad spectrum of students responses to a single course of study And in relationships one is often perplexed at the ways in which common everyday words are sometimes interpreted Those of us who study the ways in which people interact continue to marvel at the differences people bring to thinking and communicating For the past 20 years Dr Kahn has led a team of scientists in in depth studies of the different brain processes leading to the different types of information processing in people This research has developed tools which can measure how people reveal the structure of their thought processes in the flow of their communications This has enabled the team to develop a model that organizes cognitive structures according to a new paradigm one that explicitly shows the connections between cognition input and output This paradigm identifies sixteen different ways in which people process information and describes the underlying brain mechanisms which are responsible Further Mind Shapes presents how these differences developed through the stages of human evolution and the way they are expressed in the steps of modern child development Theory and practicum come together as Mind Shapes links physiology of information processing to behavior and shows how different people communicate learn and make decisions This model has been successfully applied to education management consumer communications and psychological counseling dimensions of life where understanding human behavior and motivation are critical to success Mind Shapes provides its readers with useful tools which were developed as a result of this experience
