Mathematical Reasoning of Children and Adults Alina Galvão Spinillo,Síntria Labres Lautert,Rute Elizabete de Souza Rosa Borba,2021-05-24 This book adopts an interdisciplinary approach to investigate the development of mathematical reasoning in both children and adults and to show how understanding the learner s cognitive processes can help teachers develop better strategies to teach mathematics This contributed volume departs from the interdisciplinary field of psychology of mathematics education and brings together contributions by researchers from different fields and disciplines such as cognitive psychology neuroscience and mathematics education The chapters are presented in the light of the three instances that permeate the entire book the learner the teacher and the teaching and learning process Some of the chapters analyse the didactic challenges that teachers face in the classroom such as how to interpret students reasoning the use of digital technologies and their knowledge about mathematics Other chapters examine students opinions about mathematics and others analyse the ways in which students solve situations that involve basic and complex mathematical concepts The approaches adopted in the description and interpretation of the data obtained in the studies documented in this book point out the limits the development and the possibilities of students thinking and present didactic and cognitive perspectives to the learning scenarios in different school settings Mathematical Reasoning of Children and Adults Teaching and Learning from an Interdisciplinary Perspective will be a valuable resource for both mathematics teachers and researchers studying the development of mathematical reasoning in different fields such as mathematics education educational psychology cognitive psychology and developmental psychology

Engineering in Pre-College Settings Şenay Purzer, Johannes Strobel, Monica E. Cardella, 2014-11-15 In science technology engineering and mathematics STEM education in pre college engineering is not the silent e anymore There is an accelerated interest in teaching engineering in all grade levels Structured engineering programs are emerging in schools as well as in out of school settings Over the last ten years the number of states in the US including engineering in their K 12 standards has tripled and this trend will continue to grow with the adoption of the Next Generation Science Standards The interest in pre college engineering education stems from three different motivations First from a workforce pipeline or pathway perspective researchers and practitioners are interested in understanding precursors influential and motivational factors and the progression of engineering thinking Second from a general societal perspective technological literacy and understanding of the role of engineering and technology is becoming increasingly important for the general populace and it is more imperative to foster this understanding from a younger age Third from a STEM integration and education perspective engineering processes are used as a context to teach science and math concepts This book addresses each of these motivations and the diverse means used to engage with them Designed to be a source of background and inspiration for researchers and practitioners alike this volume includes contributions on policy synthesis studies and research studies to catalyze and inform current efforts to improve pre college engineering education The book explores teacher learning and practices as well as how student learning occurs in both formal settings such as classrooms and informal settings such as homes and museums This volume also includes chapters on assessing design and creativity Tomorrow's High School Gene Bottoms, 2022-04-11 How do some high schools produce graduates that consistently achieve at high levels Would you believe there s a set of proven strategies that could help you deliver similar impressive results and better prepare students for the world after high school High schools in the United States face a startling reality many graduates are unprepared for success in postsecondary studies or for high demand well paying jobs in a rapidly changing economy Although this situation is alarming the high schools that have embraced new ways of learning show us what is possible Drawing from his experience with the High Schools That Work initiative Gene Bottoms offers educators a path forward by urging them to pursue bold goals and outlining bold actions for achieving those goals His vision is clear replace the traditional model of secondary education with one that engages students in a rigorous curriculum that combines a solid academic core with intellectually demanding career pathway courses The notion that nearly all students can achieve at high levels is borne out by numerous examples of high schools including those with traditionally underperforming student populations that have used key strategies to help all students realize their potential Bottoms explains the root causes of the current shortcomings in high school education and then specifies critical components of successful transformation Shared leadership Powerful assignments especially in math literacy and career technical education planned and executed by academic and career pathway teachers working together Strengthened connections between middle school and high school A redesigned senior year and Comprehensive counseling and advisory programs Provocative and persuasive in its sense of urgency Tomorrow s High School offers proven and practical solutions to finally make high schools a rich and rewarding experience for all students whatever their future college and career goals may be This book is a copublication of ASCD and SREB It includes access to nine downloadable appendixes Integrating Digital Technology in Education R.
