James Jacob, Stewart E. Sutin, John C. Weidman, John L. Yeager, 2015-06-17 There seems to be renewed interest in having universities and other higher education institutions engage with their communities at the local national and international levels But what is community engagement Even if this interest is genuine and widespread there are many different concepts of community service outreach and engagement The wide range of activity encompassed by community engagement suggests that a precise definition of the community mission is difficult and organizing and coordinating such activities is a complex task This edited volume includes 18 chapters that explore conceptual understandings of community engagement and higher education reforms and initiatives intended to foster it Contributors provide empirical research findings including several case study examples that respond to the following higher education community engagement issues What is the community and what does it need and expect from higher education institutions Is community engagement a mission of all types of higher education institutions or should it be the mission of specific institutions such as regional or metropolitan universities technical universities community colleges or indigenous institutions while other institutions such as major research universities should concentrate on national and global research agendas and on educating internationally competent researchers and professionals How can a university be global and at the same time locally relevant Is it or should it be left to the institutions to determine the scope and mode of their community engagement or is a state mandate preferable and feasible If community engagement or community service are mandatory what are the consequences of not complying with the mandate How effective are policy mandates and university engagement for regional and local economic development What are the principal features and relationships of regionally engaged universities Is community engagement to be left to faculty members and students who are particularly socially engaged and locally embedded or is it or should it be made mandatory for both faculty and students How can community engagement be better integrated with the other two traditional missions of the university research and teaching Cover image The Towering Four fold Mission of Higher Education by Natalie Jacob

Journal of Higher Education Outreach and Engagement, 2009 Spirituality in Higher Education Sherry L. Hoppe, Bruce W. Speck, 2005 This issue looks at spirituality in higher education through a number of lenses examining what many view as trend towards incorporating spirituality back into the lives of students faculty and administrators Questions about meaning and purpose are as old as humans and in the earliest days of higher education the search for truth was the ultimate journey of the student Over the decades though the academy has often shunned the spiritual aspect of a student s education Whether that is to avoid controversy or to protect from acknowledging that all is not known there is a predisposition to avoid talking about spirituality in the academy Regardless the result is the creation of what T S Eliot called hallow men who live in this world bit do not know why they are here and thus do not know how to live their lives This book is responding to a reawakening of desire to avoid such creatures The issue s purpose at least in a cursory way is to look at spirituality in academe through a number of lenses Composed of chapters from both faculty and administrators this volume offers insight into the critical need for spirituality in educating the whole student while recognizing that how spirituality is viewed and taught and experienced is intensely personal The goal is not to prescribe how spirituality should be integrated but to offer multiple options and perspectives Not only will readers learn about the complex and vital role of spirituality they will also be reminded that the quest for truth and meaning not the destination is what is vitally important in shaping discussions about spirituality This is the 104th issue of the Josse Bass quarterly support series New Directions for Teaching and Learning
