Peacebuilding In Practice Local Experience In Two Bosnian Towns:

Peacebuilding in Practice Adam Moore,2013-07-12 In November 2007 Adam Moore was conducting fieldwork in Mostar when the southern Bosnian city was rocked by two days of violent clashes between Croat and Bosniak youth It was not the city's only experience of ethnic conflict in recent years Indeed Mostar's problems are often cited as emblematic of the failure of international efforts to overcome deep divisions that continue to stymie the postwar peace process in Bosnia Yet not all of Bosnia has been plagued by such troubles Mostar remains mired in distrust and division but the Brcko District in the northeast corner of the country has become a model of what Bosnia could be Its multiethnic institutions operate well compared to other municipalities and are broadly supported by those who live there it also boasts the only fully integrated school system in the country What accounts for the striking divergence in postwar peacebuilding in these two towns Moore argues that a conjunction of four factors explains the contrast in outcomes in Mostar and Brcko The design of political institutions the sequencing of political and economic reforms local and regional legacies from the war and the practice and organization of international peacebuilding efforts in the two towns Differences in the latter in particular have profoundly shaped relations between local political elites and international officials Through a grounded analysis of localized peacebuilding dynamics in these two cities Moore generates a powerful argument concerning the need to rethink how peacebuilding is done that is a shift in the habitus or culture that governs international peacebuilding activities and priorities today

The Urban Transformation of Sarajevo Jordi Martín-Díaz,2021-08-10 Following the signing of the peace agreement and the end of three and a half years of siege Sarajevo simultaneously experienced a double transition from war to peace and from socialism to capitalism that was marked by an increasing international intervention This book presents a study of the urban transformation of Sarajevo during the post war period and considers both the role and the impact of the international community in its spatial and ethnic configuration Part I focuses on the period of maximum international involvement developed at local level from December 1995 until 2003 and comprises chapters on the ethno territorial division of the city the reconstruction of its ethnic diversity and the liberal transition fostered and imposed internationally Part II deals with the impact of these policies on the current spatial functional and ethnic configuration in the area of Sarajevo

Theatre for Peacebuilding Nilanjana Premaratna,2018-05-05 This book contributes to key debates in peacebuilding by exploring the role of theatre and art in general Premaratna argues that the dialogical and multi voiced nature of theatre is particularly suited to assisting societies coming to terms with conflict and opening up possibilities for conversation These are important parts of the peacebuilding process The book engages the conceptual links between theatre and peacebuilding and then offers an in depth empirical exploration of how three South Asian theatre groups approach peacebuilding Jana Karaliya in Sri Lanka Jana Sanskriti in India and Sarwanam in Nepal The ensuing reflections offer insights that are relevant to both students and practitioners concerned with issues of peace and conflict

The Frontlines of Peace Séverine Autesserre,2021 In The

Frontlines of Peace Séverine Autesserre award winning researcher and peacebuilder examines the well intentioned but systematically flawed peace industry. The author sheds light on how typical aid interveners have been getting it wrong and more importantly how a few of them have been getting it right. With real life examples drawn from across the globe Autesserre reveals that peace can grow in the most unlikely circumstances with the help of the most unlikely heroes. She makes the compelling case that we must radically change our approach if we hope to build lasting peace around us no matter where we live. Peaceland Séverine Autesserre, 2014-05-19 This book suggests a new explanation for why international peace interventions often fail to reach their full potential. Based on several years of ethnographic research in conflict zones around the world it demonstrates that everyday elements such as the expatriates social habits and usual approaches to understanding their areas of operation strongly influence peacebuilding effectiveness. Individuals from all over the world and all walks of life share numerous practices habits and narratives when they serve as interveners in conflict zones. These common attitudes and actions enable foreign peacebuilders to function in the field but they also result in unintended consequences that thwart international efforts. Certain expatriates follow alternative modes of thinking and acting often with notable results but they remain in the minority. Through an in depth analysis of the interveners everyday life and work this book proposes innovative ways to better help host populations build a sustainable peace. Divided Cities Annika Björkdahl, Lisa Strömbom, 2015-02-08 Combining peace and conflict studies with public administration research Divided Cities critically investigates the roles of public administration and civil servants in resolving issues that are potentially conflictual in divided societies. Zooming in on nine cities with very different legacies and democratic development Copenhagen, Malmö, Toronto, Belfast, Mostar, Cape Town, Mitrovica, Nicosia and Jerusalem the contributors analyze the tools, strategies and understandings of conflict resolution that are available in different stages between conflict and stability. Exploring how contested issues have been addressed by whom and to what effect this collection of essays examines how public institutions and citizens have interacted to agree on the best course of action for progress in their respective cities.

Challenging the Representation of Ethnically Divided Cities Giulia Carabelli, Aleksandra Djurasovic, Renata Summa, 2021-05-24 The book Challenging the Representation of Ethnically Divided Cities Perspectives from Mostar questions the existing overrepresentation of Mostar as an ethnically divided city. While acknowledging the existence of internal borders the chapters in this book assert that they are not solid nor fixed and by exploring how they become material or immaterial the book offers a deeper understanding of the city's complex dynamics. Accordingly the chapters in this book are attentive to how ethnic divides materialise or lose importance because of socio political contingencies. Events groups and spaces that promote reconciliation from the bottom up are examined not necessarily to assess their success and failures but rather to look at how they create networks, gain trust and form platforms that generate novel understandings of ethnic loyalties and party memberships. Further and drawing both on the empirical data and theoretical reflections this volume contributes to broader debates about divided cities by suggesting the need to engage with these cities in their complexities rather than reducing them to their ethno national divisions The book engages with socio political and economic complexities in order to shed light on how ethnic conflicts and resulting spatial partitioning are often just the surface of much more complex dynamics that are far less easy to disentangle and represent The chapters in this book were originally published in Space and Polity

Historical Dictionary of Human Rights Jacques Fomerand,2021-03-29 The second edition of Historical Dictionary of Human Rights explores both the theory and the practice of international human rights with a focus on the norms and institutions that make up the architecture of the global human rights regime and the tools processes and procedures through which such norms are realized and enforced Particular attention is given to the contextual political and sociological factors that shape and constrain the operation and functioning of international human rights institutions and their state and non state actors This is done through a chronology an introduction and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has more than 1 000 cross referenced entries on terminology conventions treaties intergovernmental organizations in the United Nations and non governmental organizations as well as some of the pioneers and defenders This book is an excellent resource for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about human rights

Democracy at the Local Level Timothy D. Sisk,2001 In today s globalising world there is growing emphasis on local democracy More than ever cities need new ideas for ways of managing the political challenges and opportunities that arise from increased urbanisation and globalisation Governing effectively at the local level is all the more urgent as vigorous local civic engagement builds the foundation for a strong and more enduring national level democracy Organised into six chapters and written by experts from around the world this handbook offers practical suggestions for designing systems of local governance principles and policies for managing culturally diverse cities choices for enhancing local elections and representative democracy options for expanding citizen participation recommendations for the international community for enhancing local democracy

Current Politics and Economics of Europe ,2005 Current Politics and Economics of Russia, Eastern and Central Europe ,2005

The War Next Door Judy Large,1997 The War Next Door is based on participative field research in Serbia Croatia Eastern Slavonia and Bosnia between 1992 and 1996 Based on practical experiences interviews personal testimony and analysis it addresses the impact of second track interventions Particular emphasis is placed on local strategies for preventing the escalation of violence building a capacity for peace amid a structure conducive to war the transition from new social movements to NGO formations tensions between the therapeutic and direct action approaches to conflict resolution and dilemmas in training and engagement such as the facilitation versus empowerment debate Includes illustrations cartoons poems photos maps diagrams and an extensive bibliography

Three Dimensions of Peacebuilding in Bosnia Steven M. Riskin,1999 Peacebuilding and Civil Society in Bosnia-Herzegovina Martina Fischer (historicus),2006 The Dayton Accords ended the war in Bosnia Herzegovina in 1995

The 10th anniversary gives reason to investigate the post war period today's realities and future perspectives Bosnian authors and international experts express their views on recent developments. Insiders and outsiders working in the conflict and on its transformation have been invited to tackle the questions. Which conflict lines mark the present society? Did peacebuilding activities address the underlying causes? What are obstacles for conflict transformation? What are the potentials and limits of international support? What does civil society mean in Bosnia and how is it related to statebuilding and democratisation? How can people constructively deal with the past in order to design the future in the region of former Yugoslavia? The book gives an overview on an important research focus of the Berghof Research Center highlighting the work of its most important cooperation partners.

Ethno-territoriality and Intervention in Two Bosnian Towns Adam Moore, 2010

Reconciliation and Education in Bosnia and Herzegovina Eleonora Emkic, 2018-02-08 Two decades after the war Bosnia and Herzegovina BiH still faces a weak national identity and ethnic and religious divisions that are further preventing the country from reaching sustainable peace and development. The education system is also divided along ethnic and religious lines. This study discusses research questions about challenges BiH has been facing on its way to peace transformation about relation between the current educational system and development of sustainable peace in BiH as well as to answer how to achieve positive and sustainable peace in BiH through peace education. In order to offer a peacebuilding framework the study offers an analysis of the role of education and educational programmes formal and non formal in the creation of ethnic identity and peaceful coexistence in BiH since the Ottoman Empire until today. The study relies on interviews with stakeholders from BiH about gaps in the peacebuilding process education system and suggestions for improvement.

The Difference Place Makes Adam Moore, 2026-05-19 How do places shape peacebuilding interventions? Put simply they are eventful. Geographers have long argued that places are constituted by relations with the wider world relations that are always in flux. In this theoretically and empirically innovative book Adam Moore argues that the inverse is also true: places are of generative of relations. People and institutions are constituted by their relations with places relations that extend beyond a particular place in question itself. Drawing on relational and processual perspectives across the social sciences Moore analyzes the effects that an infamous black market in postwar Bosnia the Arizona market had on peacebuilding projects and actors and sociopolitical relations across the country more generally. Through encounters with and narratives about the market the relations and politics of various actors in Bosnia at the time from the UN to ordinary citizens were transformed. Arizona's effects also radiated across time and space even after it was dismantled influencing political and social relations in Bosnia and further afield up to the present day. Bringing together scholarship in geography and peace and conflict studies this book is a must read for both fields and beyond.

Local Reactions to Post-conflict Peacebuilding Efforts in Bosnia-Herzegovina and South Africa Jaco Cilliers, 2001

Peacebuilding in Crisis Tobias Debiel, Thomas Held, Ulrich Schneckener, 2016-01-29 The 1990s saw a constant increase in international peace missions predominantly led by the United Nations whose mandates were more and more extended to implement societal and political transformations in post conflict societies. However in many cases these missions did not meet the high expectations and did not acquire a sufficient legitimacy on the local level. Written by leading experts in the field this edited volume brings together liberal and post liberal approaches to peacebuilding. Besides challenging dominant peacebuilding paradigms the book scrutinizes how far key concepts of post liberal peacebuilding offer sound categories and new perspectives to reframe peacebuilding research. It thus moves beyond the liberal post liberal divide and systematically integrates further perspectives paving the way for a new era in peacebuilding research which is theory guided but also substantiated in the empirical analysis of peacebuilding practices. This book will be essential reading for postgraduate students and scholar practitioners working in the field of peacebuilding. By embedding the subject area into different research perspectives the book will also be relevant for scholars who come from related backgrounds such as democracy promotion, transitional justice, statebuilding, conflict and development research and international relations in general.

Local Peacebuilding and Legitimacy Landon E. Hancock, Christopher Mitchell, 2018-02-15

This volume searches for pragmatic answers to the problems that continue to beset peacebuilding efforts at all levels of society with a singular focus on the role of legitimacy. Many peacebuilding efforts are hampered by their inability to gain the support of those they are trying to help at the local level or those at regional, national or international levels whose support is necessary either for success at the local level or to translate local successes to wider arenas. There is no one agreed upon reason for the difficulty in translating peacebuilding from one arena of action to another but among those elements that have been studied one that appears understudied or assumed to be unimportant is the role of legitimacy. Many questions can be asked about legitimacy as a concept and this volume addresses these questions through multiple case studies which examine legitimacy at local, regional, national and international levels as well as looking at how legitimacy at one level either translates or fails to translate at other levels in order to correlate the level of legitimacy with the success or failure of peacebuilding projects and programs. The value of this work lies both in the breadth of the cases and the singular focus on the role of legitimacy in peacebuilding. By focusing on this concept this volume represents an attempt to build beyond the critical peacebuilding approach of deconstructing the liberal peacebuilding paradigm to a search for pragmatic answers to the problems that continue to plague peacebuilding efforts at all levels of society. This book will be of much interest to students of peacebuilding, conflict resolution, development studies, security studies and International Relations.
