Using Information Technology strategically Christian Kunert, 2012-09-25 Seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject Business economics Information Management grade 2 0 University of Abertay Dundee language English abstract This report provides an evaluation of information technology IT strategies and their implementation in business through an analysis and review of business models illustrated through three case studies of business implementation. Research demonstrates that when IT is fully integrated with business processes it results in improvements to efficiency, effectiveness and efficacy of the business in turn those improvements can lead to competitive advantage. Two critical success factors are identified for successful business integration and implementation: good project management and development of the IT strategy in line with the development of business strategy. In conclusion IT can make the difference between businesses being market leaders or laggards in the future and at worst the difference between survival and failure. Current economic and market conditions have heightened the potential risk of failure but provides opportunity to those businesses that act fast to improve their Information systems IS in support of their business strategy. It is recommended that world class project methodologies are used when implementing IT and IS solutions. The project manager and team need to be carefully selected to ensure successful implementation against clearly defined success criteria within realistic time, budget and quality constraints. To ensure maximum integration with the business the involvement of knowledgeable business process owners and end users is critical. Robust stakeholder management will not only ensure successful design but will help buy in and implementation of the final solution. The case studies used in this report are drawn from the author's experience of working with these companies.

The development of Information Systems and emerging business models Jan Harder, 2021-12-22 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject Business economics Information Management grade 2 7 Lund University School of Economics and Management language English abstract Disruptive technologies have fundamentally changed the way profits are created and therefore the business models of both startups and legacy companies. The transformation of information systems as a research discipline dedicated to this topic will be discussed to then address current research on digital business models. It's nothing new that business models are changing due to new technologies but nowadays it's not just about selling your goods online but about completely new business models. How is it that some companies become successful with their digital business models and others fail and what factors can or must be considered This is one of the tasks of the information systems discipline However since the researcher have different points of view that evolve over time and since information systems must repeatedly justify itself as a discipline first an overview of its development will be provided Then the technologies from the Gartner Hype Cycle with the highest expectations will be presented such as artificial intelligence which can itself create artifacts such as source code or design To better analyze the potential value creation opportunities that can arise from these technologies the basics of business models will first be presented and in particular how business models must be adapted to the new digital possibilities

What do Christianity and librarianship have in common? Netherlands Prime Minister and theologian Abraham Kuyper (1837-1920) was among the first in the modern era to attempt to rejoin the dichotomy of sacred vs. secular study when he said no single piece of our mental world is to be hermetically sealed off from the rest. Over the years a number of publications have followed Kuyper's lead, yet little has been written on the subject since Greg A. Smith's notable Christian Librarianship (2002). Building on Smith's work, this volume seeks to bridge the sacred/secular divide with an exploration of how Christianity and the gospel are manifested through the profession of librarianship.

Proceedings of the XVII International symposium Symorg 2020 Dušan Starčević, Sanja Marinković, 2020-06-30. Ever since 1989 the Faculty of Organizational Sciences, University of Belgrade has been the host of SymOrg, an event that promotes scientific disciplines of organizing and managing a business. Traditionally the Symposium has been an opportunity for its participants to share and exchange both academic and practical knowledge and experience in a pleasant and creative atmosphere. This time however, due to the challenging situation regarding the COVID 19 pandemic, we have decided that all the essential activities planned for the International Symposium SymOrg 2020 should be carried out online between the 7th and the 9th of September 2020. We are very pleased that the topic of SymOrg 2020 Business and Artificial Intelligence attracted researchers from different institutions both in Serbia and abroad. Why is artificial intelligence a disruptive technology? Simply because it significantly alters the way consumers, industries or businesses operate. According to the European Commission document titled Artificial Intelligence for Europe (2018), AI is a key disruptive technology that has just begun to reshape the world. The Government of the Republic of Serbia has also recognized the importance of AI for the further development of its economy and society and has prepared an AI Development Strategy for the period between 2020 and 2025. The first step has already been made: the Science Fund of the Republic of Serbia, after a public call, has selected and financed twelve AI projects. This year more than 200 scholars and practitioners authored and co-authored the 94 scientific
