International Trade Reporter ,2008 The Law of the Sea and Maritime Boundary Disputes in Areas of Hydrocarbon Potential Vivek Chandra,2023-09-22 The United Nations Convention on the Law of Sea UNCLOS is hailed as one of the most significant multilateral legal agreements executed in the past few decades However its shortcomings are neither trivial nor inconsequential especially regarding maritime boundary disputes involving hydrocarbon resources This monograph examines the relationship between UNCLOS and maritime boundaries in five non polar regions encompassing almost 90% of global unresolved disputes involving offshore hydrocarbon development. The regions which include the eastern Mediterranean, the Caspian Sea, the Persian Gulf, northeast Asia and the South China Sea were chosen for their oil and gas resources potential and recent military skirmishes that have the potential to lead to wider regional confrontations. The book addresses each region's maritime boundary status in the context of specific articles within UNCLOS that have been exploited by disputing states to justify their overlapping claims. The history and future applicability of multilateral Joint Development Area agreements for each region are evaluated for their potential to provide a cooperative solution to resolve ongoing tensions. Highlighting the limitations of current gun boat diplomacy, the monograph makes practical suggestions for new paradigms for resolving outstanding disputes, promoting lasting peace and generating economic benefits resulting from resource development.

Trade Agreements at the Crossroads Susy Frankel, Meredith Lewis, 2013-11-20. The book examines trade agreements in the context of the current world economic crisis and the uncompleted World Trade Organization WTO Doha Round of trade negotiations. With economies shrinking and protectionism on the rise many fear a protracted global recession. This raises important questions as to what role trade agreements multilateral, plurilateral and bilateral should be playing in the current climate of uncertainty and how best to plan for a more stable economic future. Previous assumptions are now being questioned making this an opportune time to critically examine the WTO free trade agreements, bilateral investment treaties and other international economic law instruments. Furthermore participants in international agreements are concerned with emerging issues that have the potential to strengthen or weaken the global trading system including matters of treaty interpretation, terms of new agreements and effects of existing provisions. This book provides a timely addition to the international economic law literature as its submissions have been prepared during a time of unusual uncertainty and economic change. Individuals interested in international economic law will seek scholarship that recognizes the current international economic climate. This book should be of interest to a wide range of academics and student researchers as well as policymakers and practitioners.
