After the Act Mavis Maclean,John Eekelaar,2019-04-18 After the Act describes the aftermath of the recent removal under LASPO of public funding from legal services in family matters other than in defined cases such as child protection and domestic abuse Through analysis of the policy context interviews with key players observation of services provided by lawyers students lay support workers and the advice sector the authors outline the work being done and the skills being used in a range of settings The book raises questions not only about access to family justice but about the role of law in family matters in an increasingly post legal society Fragmentation of the market in the new services offering information initial advice online or alternative dispute resolution but rarely ongoing casework raises questions about where costs fall and how quality can be assured Many of these services are forms of private ordering where outcomes are hard to assess If neither the state nor the individual can afford full legal services where the best interests of any child involved are of paramount importance and lawyers negotiate to make best use of the resources available perhaps it is time to consider using lawyers differently with lay support to solve problems before they become disputes

Delivering Family Justice in the 21st Century Mavis Maclean,John Eekelaar,Benoit Bastard,2015-08-27 Family justice requires not only a legal framework within which personal obligations are regulated over the life course but also a justice system which can deliver legal information advice and support at times of change of status or family stress together with mechanisms for negotiation dispute management and resolution with adjudication as the last resort The past few years have seen unparalleled turbulence in the way family justice systems function These changes are associated with economic constraints in many countries including England and Wales where legal aid for private family matters has largely disappeared But there is also a change in ideology in a number of jurisdictions including Canada towards what is sometimes called neo liberalism whereby the state seeks to reduce its area of activity while at the same time maintaining strong views on family values Legal services may become fragmented and marketised and the role of law and lawyers reduced while self help web based services expand The contributors to this volume share their anxieties about the impact on the ability of individuals to achieve fair and informed resolution in family matters

Contemporary Trends in Conflict and Communication Jessica Katz Jameson,Missy F. Hannah,2022-07-18 Contemporary Trends in Conflict and Communication Technology and Social Media examines the myriad ways conflict communication occurs in mediated spaces whether through social media platforms such as Twitter Facebook and Instagram on private social enterprise spaces or through formal online dispute resolution ODR technologies We were experiencing the increase of conflict communication in hybrid spaces prior to the COVID 19 pandemic yet the global lockdown that shifted everyone to remote teaching learning and working heightened our attention to the impact of technology and social media on conflict dynamics While social media is often implicated in the spread of alternative facts false news and intimidation technology and new media also have the capacity to enhance and transform conflict communication in education workplace and socio political settings The contributors to this volume showcase cutting edge research that helps us make sense of the times we are living in and is organized in three sections 1 Using technology to promote dialogue and collaboration 2 Conflict communication on social media 3 Online conflict management in education training and practice This collection is relevant to scholars of conflict studies as it highlights key trends and areas for future research to improve conflict communication dialogue and collaboration and proposes ideas for using technology and social media to transform and connect rather than polarize and divide
