CONFERENCIA SAFE HAVENS 7 - 9 diciembre 2022 Ciudad de México

Safe Havens es una conferencia anual del sector de las libertades artísticas convocada cada diciembre desde 2013. Reúne a artistas, activistas, abogados y formuladores de políticas públicas para una reunión internacional creativa en la intersección de las artes y los derechos humanos, fomentando la creación de alianzas, el compartir de capacidades y el desarrollo de soluciones innovadoras y de mejores prácticas centradas en los artistas para enfrentar los desafíos del sector. Buscamos cerrar la brecha entre lo local y lo global brindando una oportunidad única para que los artistas y quienes los defienden se conecten y construyan colaboraciones en todo el mundo.

Este año, la Conferencia Safe Havens se lleva a cabo una vez más en persona durante tres días de intervenciones artísticas, talleres, paneles de discusión y activaciones de redes, con sede en la Ciudad de México y enfocada en mejorar las redes con y dentro de América Latina. Para garantizar que seamos lo más inclusivos posible a nivel mundial, algunas sesiones también se llevarán a cabo digitalmente, lo que permitirá la participación de aquellos que no puedan viajar a la reunión física.

La Conferencia de este año se inspira en la polifonía de los movimientos sociales y los actores locales que impulsan los debates sobre el medio ambiente, la igualdad de género, los derechos de las minorías, los derechos sociales y culturales y la justicia restaurativa, buscando trazar las formas de Resistir, Reimaginar, Restaurar. En el centro de nuestros compromisos se encuentra corregir las exclusiones históricas que hacen imposible el cambio a largo plazo, de modo que nuestras conversaciones giren en torno a las voces de las mujeres, las minorías indígenas, raciales y étnicas y la comunidad LGBTQ+.

Civil Passions Sharon R. Krause, 2013-12-08 In this book Sharon Krause argues that moral and political deliberation must incorporate passions even as she insists on the value of impartiality Her work provides a systematic account of how passions can generate an impartial standpoint that yields binding and compelling conclusions in politics Landscapes of the Anthropocene with Google Earth Andrew Goudie, 2023-12-06 This book considers the meaning of the term considers the value and characteristics of Google Earth and discusses the main driving forces of landscape change Google Earth provides a means whereby one can identify changes in the landscapes of Earth over recent decades This has been a time of great human activity and landscapes have been transformed as a result of such factors as land use and land cover change climate change the intensive harnessing of new energy sources population pressures and globalization Many geologists now believe that the whole Earth System is being changed and that there is thus a need to introduce the concept of the Anthropocene It then looks at specific landscape types including rivers coasts lakes deserts tundra and glaciers Advancing Knowledge on Cyanobacterial Blooms in Freshwaters Elisabeth (Savi) Vardaka ,Konstantinos Ar. Kormas, 2020-11-13 Cyanobacterial blooms are a water quality problem that is widely acknowledged to have detrimental ecological and economic effects in drinking and recreational water supplies and fisheries There is increasing evidence that cyanobacterial blooms have increased globally and are likely to expand in water resources as a result of climate change Of most concern are cyanotoxins along with the mechanisms that induce their release and determine their fate in the aquatic environment These secondary metabolites pose a potential hazard to human health and agricultural and aquaculture products that are intended for animal and human consumption therefore strict and reliable control of cyanotoxins is crucial for assessing risk In this direction a deeper understanding of the mechanisms that determine cyanobacterial bloom structure and toxin production has become the target of management practices This Special Issue entitled Advancing Knowledge on Cyanobacterial Blooms in Freshwaters aims to bring together recent multi and interdisciplinary research from the field to the laboratory and back again driven by working hypotheses based on any aspect of mitigating cyanobacterial blooms from ecological theory to applied research Gold, Festivals, and Music in Southeast Brazil Barbara Alge, 2021-07-29 Gold Festivals and Music in Southeast Brazil Sounding Portugueseness is a study of the musical legacy of the eighteenth century Brazilian gold rush that integrates ethnographic research of the main genres of former mining communities in Brazil from liturgical music in the style of European art music to Afro Brazilian musical expressions Its content and structure are informed by Norbert Elias s idea of the civilizing process which is explored regarding its relevance in interpreting sociocultural processes and choreo musical expressions in the small town of Morro Vermelho The book s innovative feature is its focus on a little known area to non Brazilian scholars and its focus on the colonial and European heritage in Brazil Morro Vermelho s cultural traditions have received relatively limited attention The Catholic festival of Our Lady of Nazareth provides a setting for the documentation and analysis of the musical setting and is thus placed at the center of the discussion. It leads through the vast writings on Brazilian identity and challenges the view on Brazilian-ness as constructed in terms of the mixing of races. Norbert Elias's concept of the civilizing process structures the book and is relevant for understanding the cultural sphere of the festival of Our Lady of Nazareth. The book combines discourses of Portuguese-ness with historical sources and observations from fieldwork and community building in the virtual world. The focus on the music to support social constructions of Portuguese-ness is supported with evidence from diverse data sources: music literature and fieldwork recordings, original interviews, marketing materials and historical narratives. The combination of archival, ethnographic and bibliographic research methods attempts a seamless narrative. Its approach to fieldwork and frank reflections on the process and relevant issues help to contextualize the analyses and serve as useful advice for future researchers.

Aiming for Net Zero Julia A. Flagg, 2024-10-01 How Costa Rican leaders adopted policies to reduce planet warming, greenhouse gas emissions and what other countries can learn from their actions. As atmospheric greenhouse gases continue their steep ascent, the world has never been more in need of policies designed to reduce emissions. Among those few nations that have committed to ambitious emission reduction plans is the small Central American country of Costa Rica, whose pioneering policies include a Payments for Environmental Services program, a carbon neutrality pledge and a goal of decarbonizing the economy. In this book, Aiming for Net Zero, Julia Flagg explores why Costa Rican leaders have adopted more climate mitigation policies than leaders of other nations and how these leaders have introduced and developed these policies. Drawing on archival evidence and interviews conducted between 2013 and 2021 with three dozen people who have contributed to climate policy in Costa Rica, Flagg tells the story of Costa Rica's climate mitigation policy development. Costa Rica's historically egalitarian class structure and interconnected green-minded urban elite, she writes, prioritized investment in public welfare as the means to enhance the national level of development, leading to the advancement of climate mitigation policies during four historical moments: the late 1980s, the mid 1990s, the mid 2000s and the late 2010s. Offering many lessons for other nations aiming to curtail planet warming emissions, Aiming for Net Zero shows how investments in the public good enhance social development, which ultimately allows state planners to pursue ambitious climate mitigation policies.

Resistance and Empowerment in Black Women's Hair Styling Elizabeth Johnson, 2016-04-08 Elizabeth Johnson's Resistance and Empowerment in Black Women's Hair Styling develops the argument that one way Black women define themselves and each other is by the way they style/groom their hair, via endorsement by the media through advertisement, idealized identification of Black female celebrities and encouragement by professional celebrity hair stylists who serve as change agents. As a result, hair becomes a physical manifestation of their self-identity, revealing a private and personal mindset. Her research answers the following questions: What is the relationship between Black females' choice of hairstyles/grooming and transmitted messages of aesthetics by the dominant culture through culturally specific magazines? What role do the natural hair blogs/vlogs play as a change agent in encouraging or discouraging consumers grooming their hair in its natural state What impact does a globalized consumer market of Black hair care products have on Hispanic Latinas and Bi Racial women Are Black female Generation Y members more likely to receive backlash for failure to conform their hair to dominant standards in their hair adornment in the workplace Johnson thus demonstrates that the major concern from messages sent to Black women about their hair is its impact on Black identity Thus the goal of Black women should be to break with hegemonic modes of seeing thinking and being for full liberation This critical and deep consciousness will debunk the messages told to Black women that their kinky frizzy thick hair is undesirable bad unmanageable and shackling
