

An aerial photograph of a modern city, likely Brasília, Brazil. The image features a large, iconic dome-shaped building, the National Congress of Brazil, situated in the center. A single, large, dark green tree stands prominently in front of the dome. The city's layout is characterized by a grid of wide, straight roads and several elevated highway systems (interchanges) that cut through the urban landscape. In the background, a large reservoir or lake is visible under a hazy sky.
