Smart Wireless Acoustic Sensor Network Design for Noise Monitoring in Smart Cities Rosa Ma

Alsina-Pagès, Patrizia Bellucci, Giovanni Zambon, 2021-01-15 The Environmental Noise Directive END requires that a five year updating of noise maps is carried out to check and report on the changes that have occurred during the reference period The updating process is usually achieved using a standardized approach consisting of collecting and processing information through acoustic models to produce the updated noise maps This procedure is time consuming and costly and has a significant impact on the financial statement of the authorities responsible for providing the maps Furthermore the END requires that easy to read noise maps are made available to the public to provide information on noise levels and the subsequent actions to be undertaken by local and central authorities to reduce noise impacts In order to update the noise maps more easily and in a more effective way it is convenient to design an integrated system incorporating real time noise measurement and signal processing to identify and analyze the noise sources present in the mapping area e g road traffic noise leisure noise etc as well as to automatically generate and present the corresponding noise maps This wireless acoustic sensor network design requires transversal knowledge from accurate hardware design for acoustic sensors to network structure design and management of the information with signal processing to identify the origin of the measured noise and graphical user interface application design to present the results to end users This book is collection in which several views of methodology and technologies required for the development of an efficient wireless acoustic sensor network from the first stages of its design to the tests conducted during deployment its final performance and possible subsequent implications for authorities in terms of the definition of policies Contributions include several LIFE and H2020 projects aimed at the design and implementation of intelligent acoustic sensor networks with a focus on the publication of good practices for the design and deployment of intelligent networks in other locations

New Forms of Urban Agriculture: An Urban Ecology

Perspective Jessica Ann Diehl, Harpreet Kaur, 2022-02-18 Eating locally and developing an urban rural food continuum is a rapidly evolving movement Integration of multi functional forms of agriculture termed New Forms of Urban Agriculture NFUA could be a critical adaptation to strengthen this movement and for the sustainability of cities While NFUA have the potential to provide diverse benefits to humans there is an absence of reliable empirical data on the scale and impact of urban resources on NFUA which has a profound impact on its viability and sustainability In this book we shift the focus from how NFUA have potential to impact the urban system to investigate the potential impacts of urban resources on NFUA Access to resources such as land labour clean water etc are major barriers to enter the agriculture sector in the cities the chapters in this book present projects or reviews recent research on the subject from different cities in the world This edited volume offers critical perspectives from diverse disciplines expertise and geographic contexts related to the actual and potential role of urban and peri urban agriculture in the developing and the developed world where forms adaptations and debates around NFUA vary distinctively Using and urban ecology lens the book provides empirical evidence of how urban resources of land water waste labour and biodiversity impact NFUA Urban Services to Ecosystems Chiara Catalano, Maria Beatrice Andreucci, Riccardo Guarino, Francesca Bretzel, Manfredi Leone, Salvatore Pasta, 2021-09-15 The aim of this book is to bring together multidisciplinary research in the field of green infrastructure design construction and ecology The main core of the volume is constituted by contributions dealing with green infrastructure vegetation science nature based solutions and sustainable urban development The green infrastructure and its ecosystem services indeed are gaining space in both political agendas and academic research However the attention is focused on the services that nature is giving for free to and for human health and survival What if we start to see things from another perspective Our actions shall converge for instance to turn man made environment like cities from heterotrophic to autotrophic ecosystems From landscape ecology to urban and building design like bricks of a wall from the small scale to the bigger landscape scale via ecological networks and corridors we should start answering these questions what are the services that are we offering to Nature What are we improving How to implement our actions This book contains three Open Access chapters which are licensed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License CC BY 4 0 The European Union and Urban Development Hans-Werner Hess, Weronika Cycak, 2018-07-28 By propagating a specific ideal of the European City the European Union significantly influences development policy in the continent s urban regions Officially the EU does not have a remit to do so but the future of its cities is seen as crucially important for the future of the Union itself The EU Commission has therefore favoured strategically a multi governance model for urban development which has gradually increased the influence of local and regional actors on national urban policies mediated by an extensive lobby and discourse network largely under the supranational Commission s guidance The Dossier outlines how this strategy developed from the 1990s onwards culminating in the 2016 Pact of Amsterdam It presents an analysis of all relevant documents of the last three decades describes the main actors of EU urban development and traces the consensual method of urban policy in contemporary Europe It also presents an overview of practically all EU financed or co funded projects in European cities since the 1990s and their rationales of EU cohesion environmental and climate change mitigation policies in favour of urban regional development Understanding Drug Dealing and Illicit Drug Markets Tammy C. Ayres, Craig Ancrum, 2023-07-31 This book examines the drug dealer in contemporary society from an interdisciplinary perspective and considers the increasingly blurred demarcation between illegitimate and legitimate drug markets It explores the motives and drivers of those involved in drug supply and dispels common and stereotypical myths and misconceptions surrounding illegal drug markets and those who operate within them The drug dealer has become one of our foremost contemporary folk devils Those who trade in substances prohibited by law are the subject of array of inaccurate myths and urban legends Criminology has tended either to shoehorn drug dealers into neat typologies or portray them as victims of an uncaring predatory post modern society In reality we know relatively little about the complex and diverse world of drug markets and our concentration inevitably falls on low end retail dealers who operate in the most visible sectors of the illegal economy Bringing together an international group of experts this book considers perspectives from around the world including UK USA South America Spain India and Australia This book will be of interest to students and researchers across criminology law sociology criminal justice and public health and will be essential reading for those taking courses on drugs drug markets and substance misuse
