Planning Sustainable Cities

Un-Habitat,2016-05-13

Current urban planning systems are not equipped to deal with the major urban challenges of the twenty first century including effects of climate change resource depletion and economic instability plus continued rapid urbanization with its negative consequences such as poverty slums and urban informality These planning systems have also to a large extent failed to meaningfully involve and accommodate the ways of life of communities and other stakeholders in the planning of urban areas thus contributing to the problems of spatial marginalization and exclusion It is clear that urban planning needs to be reconsidered and revitalized for a sustainable urban future Planning Sustainable Cities reviews the major challenges currently facing cities and towns all over the world the emergence and spread of modern urban planning and the effectiveness of current approaches More importantly it identifies innovative urban planning approaches and practices that are more responsive to current and future challenges of urbanization The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends It is an essential reference for researchers academics public authorities and civil society organizations all over the world Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter and Enhancing Urban Safety and Security

Transitional Justice and the Prosecution of Political Leaders in the Arab Region

Noha Aboueldahab,2017-10-05 The dramatic uprisings that ousted the long standing leaders of several countries in the Arab region set in motion an unprecedented period of social political and legal transformation The prosecution of political leaders took centre stage in the pursuit of transitional justice following the Arab Spring Through a comparative case study of Egypt Libya Tunisia and Yemen this book argues that transitional justice in the Arab region presents the strongest challenge yet to the transitional justice paradigm This paradigm is built on the underlying assumption that transitions constitute a shift from non liberal to liberal democratic regimes where often legal measures are taken to address atrocities committed during the prior regime The book is guided by two principal questions first what trigger and driving factors led to the decision of whether or not to prosecute former political leaders And second what shaping factors affected the content and extent of decisions regarding prosecution In answering these questions the book enhances our understanding of how transitional justice is pursued by different actors in varied contexts In doing so it challenges the predominant understanding that transitional justice uniformly occurs in liberalising contexts and calls for a re thinking of transitional justice theory and practice Using original findings generated from almost 50 interviews across 4 countries this research builds on the growing critical literature that claims that transitional justice is an under theorised field and needs to be developed to take into account non liberal and complex transitions It will be stimulating and thought provoking reading for all those interested in transitional justice and the Arab Spring Land, Rights and Innovation Geoffrey K. Payne,2002 Every day millions of people around the world spend their hard earned income improving houses they do not officially own or legally occupy The vast majority are poor householders in urban areas of the South where in some cities more than half the population lives in various types of unauthorized housing As land in urban areas becomes more expensive and globalization accelerates the commercialization of urban land markets people are forced to occupy unused government land or purchase agricultural land and build a house without permission activities that urban authorities are often seeking to prevent Land Rights and Innovation examines the complex issues surrounding land tenure and the challenges they present for urban planners in the South and in the transition economies of Eastern Europe Based on extensive research the book brings together a diverse range of examples from 17 countries where the authorities non governmental organizations or communities have evolved practical innovative approaches to providing tenure for the urban poor These widen the choices available for residents encourage local investment to reduce poverty and facilitate the development of more equitable and efficient urban land markets The inclusion of a chapter examining the legal issues of security of tenure as well as an introduction and a conclusion summarizing the way forward makes this book of value to all those responsible for formulating and implementing urban land tenure policies in the rapidly changing and expanding cities in the South and transition economies Consultants and Consulting Organizations Directory Janice W. Management and Conservation of the African Great Lakes R. C. M. Crul, 1998 The Victoria Tanganyika and Malawi lakes serve as renewable sources of freshwater and fish besides fulfilling other important functions in their riparian countries. Their ecosystems are in danger however. Research on the lakes ecosystems and their main environment problems is a prerequisite to the formulation of strategies and action plans for integrated environmental management of the lakes basins. This volume presents data collected and the main results of hydrological studies Jazz Journal International, 1981
