

~ Foundations of Neonatal Resuscitation ~

Key Points

- In utero, fetal pulmonary blood vessels are tightly constricted and the alveoli are filled with fluid.
- Newborn resuscitation is most commonly needed d/t respiratory failure.
- The most important and effective NRP step is ventilation.

Anatomy and Assessment

- Respirations before birth: determined by the placenta (carries O<sub>2</sub> and CO<sub>2</sub> between the fetus and mother) and breathing movements (increase lung growth)
  - Placental respiratory failure: insufficient oxygenation and CO<sub>2</sub> build up → hyperacidity; presents as decreased fetal activity, lack of FHR variability, decels, reflexive gasps, apnea, and bradycardia
- Respirations after birth: the lungs take over
  - Respiratory failure: d/t decreased gas exchange
- Fetal circulation: O<sub>2</sub> supplied by the mother's blood via the placenta → umbilical vein → foramen ovale and ductus arteriosus (L>R shunt that bypasses the lungs so most O<sub>2</sub> reaches the heart and brain)
- Transition after birth: deep breath/cry → fluid absorbed and air fills lungs → pulmonary vessels relax → blood reaches the lungs → adequate blood flow once cord is clamped → BP increases → less blood bypasses the lungs
  - Poor transition: poor oxygenation to organs, acid accumulation in tissues, vasoconstriction, organ damage; presents as irregular/absent/fast breathing, tachycardia or bradycardia, hypotonia, pallor or cyanosis, low SpO<sub>2</sub>, HoTN

NRP Algorithm (See last page for NRP Algorithm Diagram)

1. Rapid Evaluation: Is the baby stable enough to remain with mom, or should they be brought to the warmer?
2. Airway: Open the airway and support spontaneous respirations
3. Breathing: Start PPV to assist breathing if there is apnea or bradycardia. Start CPAP/O<sub>2</sub> if breathing is labored or the SpO<sub>2</sub> is low
4. Circulation: Start chest compressions with PPV if severe bradycardia persists
5. Drug: Administer Epi with compressions and PPV if severe bradycardia persists

Key Skills for NRP

- Know the environment: location of resuscitation equipment, how to get help
- Use available information: prenatal history such as maternal/fetal complications, meds, and risk factors
- Anticipate and plan: pre-brief, assign roles, form an action plan
- Identify a team leader: should clearly state goals, delegate tasks, monitor workloads, include others in planning, think out loud, have situational awareness, and hand over leadership if preoccupied
- Communicate: use names of team members, actively share information, clearly order meds, use concise and clear language, closed-loop communication, verify information, share changes with the whole team, include the family

Neonatal and Pediatric Cerebro-Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation Utpal Bhalala, Graeme Polglase, Eugene Dempsey, Michael Shoykhet, 2018-11-16 Pediatric resuscitation medicine has witnessed significant advances with improved understanding of the pathophysiology of cardiac arrest and resuscitation Multiple mechanisms of neurological injury have been identified outlining potential avenues for neuroprotection following cardiac arrest Resuscitation science exists at multiple levels of analysis from biomechanics of chest compressions to implementation of best training procedures in real time from epidemiology of cardiac arrest survival to molecular mechanisms of cellular injury due to ischemia and reperfusion What next steps in research and in clinical practice will ensure the best possible neurologic outcome among children who survive cardiac arrest How can we leverage novel technologies in neuroimaging nanomaterials drug delivery biomarker based risk stratification and next generation sequencing among others to resuscitate and to protect the Central Nervous System CNS How can we improve clinical trial design and data analyses to maintain a robust clinical research infrastructure and to ensure validity and applicability These are just some of the questions will be addressed in this Research Topic Using evidence based algorithms and public health approaches to disseminate them the last decade has seen a paradigm shift in pediatric resuscitation with significantly improved survival from pediatric cardiac arrests However neurologic outcome in survivors remains far from optimal High quality CPR is increasingly recognized as a key factor for improving neurologic outcomes Advanced technologies allow monitoring the quality of CPR and just in time feedback to improve the quality of CPR. Further research is needed to evaluate impact of these technologies on neurologic outcome. The recent American Heart Association CPR guidelines emphasize on Circulation Airway Breathing (CAB) approach to CPR. This needs a careful evaluation in children in whom timely airway and breathing support are as important as circulation. The growing controversy regarding use of epinephrine and alternative routes of administration of epinephrine during CPR warrants further evaluation in the setting of pediatric CPR. Improved outcome of hemodynamic goal directed CPR over standard CPR in animal models of cardiac arrest has initiated interest in physiology based CPR especially in the in-hospital cardiac arrest. Basic and applied science research have become relevant for specific subpopulations of pediatric cardiac arrest victims and circumstances e.g. ventricular fibrillation, neonates, congenital heart disease, extracorporeal cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Just in time and just in place simulation training which have evolved as training strategies to improve quality of CPR are being evaluated for outcomes. The concept of just in time and just in place coaching of CPR providers on high quality CPR is a novel concept which has emerged recently and remains unstudied. Whilst there have been significant advances in newborn stabilization over the last decade many questions remain unanswered. These include the role of delayed cord clamping in preterm infants and term newborns requiring resuscitation, the role of sustained inflations as a method of respiratory support and the role of epinephrine and volume administration in neonatal resuscitation. Novel methods of assessment including the use of end tidal CO<sub>2</sub> monitoring, respiratory function monitoring and near infrared spectroscopy warrant further evaluation. The use of transitioning animal models that accurately replicate the newborn circulation with patent fetal shunts are emerging but more assessments in these are required to better establish CPR strategies in newborn infants. Newborn resuscitation training programs have resulted in a reduction in neonatal mortality in the developing world but key questions remain around the frequency of training, team training methods and the role of simulation training. Post resuscitation interventions in particular therapeutic hypothermia has resulted in significant improvements in long term outcome and there is now a growing interest in adjunct therapies such as use of melatonin, erythropoietin or other neuroprotective molecules to improve therapeutic benefits of cooling. Therapeutic hypothermia did not provide any higher benefit than normothermia in children following out of hospital cardiac arrest although there is considerable debate in the community whether 14% probability of observing a similar outcome if the study were repeated a 100 times applies to an individual child in the PICU. Exciting research is occurring in unraveling connection between inflammation, immune dysregulation and neuroinjury. This will further support research on the use of anti-inflammatory agents and immunomodulators for neuroprotection after cardiac arrest and birth asphyxia.

International Partnerships for Strengthening Health Care Workforce Capacity: Models of Collaborative Education Jeanne Mahoney Leffers, Jennifer Gail Audette, Kevin S. Hardwick, William Van Cleve, 2018-07-31 A critical problem in resource scarce countries across the globe is the shortage of appropriately trained health care providers. According to the World Health Organization the current global health workforce shortage of 7.2 million providers is estimated to increase to 12.9 million by 2035. This disproportionately affects resource scarce countries, denying basic health care to millions and limiting access to life saving treatments. Due to limited resources in these countries not enough health professionals receive training, few have the opportunity for continuing education and the ability to develop or implement educational programs and curricula is constrained. Additionally many existing providers choose to emigrate in pursuit of professional advancement opportunities contributing to the overall shortage of qualified health care providers in these environments. Efforts to strengthen health workforce capacity not only increases access, safety and availability of care but is critical to building resilient health systems capable of caring for the world's neediest populations. This requires not only cultivating new health care providers but also providing ongoing professional development to retain and support current providers advancing the level of practice in accordance with current clinical science, cultivating educators and enhancing training curricula. It is critical also to contribute to the limited body of research documenting the effectiveness and impact of various models of collaborative education and partnership to improve health worker training and retention. This Research Topic examines strategies for building health workforce capacity through the prism of educational partnerships offering significant examples of effective models of international collaborative education as well as insight and guidance on the structure and operation of successful global partnerships. Collectively the 31 articles accepted and included in this eBook represent a diversity of health professions and geographies across academic, non-governmental organizations and other global partnership forms. The published manuscripts highlight various elements of partnerships with several consistent themes emerging: capacity building, local empowerment, mutual trust and respect, long term commitment, equity, collaboration and the importance of integrating theory and practice for a balance of academic and clinical development. The manuscripts provide examples of partnership and educational programs that are in the formative early stages of implementation and others which have been sustained long term some for decades The following eBook is divided into two parts with each part broken down into sections Part I of the eBook includes 18 manuscripts that showcase long term educational programs that strongly exemplify multiple foundational aspects of international partnerships in education including mutual collaboration and project management empowerment of host partners to lead and sustain programs and capacity building While individual manuscripts included in Part I look broadly at multiple aspects of successful international partnerships in education Part II manuscripts focus intently on one two elements Part II includes 13 articles that highlight partnership through short rather than long term educational initiatives as well as program development and broad academic partnerships This Research Topic was sponsored by Health Volunteers Overseas a United States based non profit that collaborates with over eighty international universities and health institutions to send volunteer health professionals to low resource countries to provide continuing education train the trainer courses professional support and consultation on academic program and curricula development
