Layers of the Skin and Epidermis Structure

The skin is composed of three main layers, arranged from the most superficial to the deepest: epidermis, dermis, and hypodermis. The epidermis is made up of stratified squamous epithelial tissue, which provides a protective barrier. Its layers from outermost to innermost include the stratum corneum, lucidum (only in thick skin), granulosum, spinosum, and basale. The dermis contains connective tissue, blood vessels, nerves, and various glands, providing support and nourishment to the epidermis. The hypodermis (or subcutaneous tissue) primarily consists of adipose tissue, serving functions such as insulation, cushioning, and energy storage.

Keratin and Keratinocytes in the Skin

Keratinocytes are the predominant cell type in the epidermis, responsible for producing keratin, a fibrous protein that imparts protection and structural strength. Keratin forms a tough, water-resistant barrier that protects underlying tissues from mechanical injury, pathogens, and water loss, thus maintaining skin integrity and barrier function.

Thick versus Thin Skin

Thick skin has a thicker epidermis, notably with a prominent stratum lucidum, and is found on areas subject to high friction such as the palms and soles. It lacks hair follicles and sebaceous glands. In contrast, thin skin covers most of the body, has a thinner epidermis, and contains hair
