Nesting Body Dwelling Mind:

Nesting Sarah Robinson, 2011 Increasingly technology seems to be de materializing our world Yet our ideas and experiences both physical and cultural remain fundamentally patterned by the complex material interplay of brain body and world With support from pioneering research in the cognitive and neurosciences Sarah Robinson combines philosophy poetry and personal narrative to offer a poignant study of the many ways in which our built environment shapes us as significantly as we have shaped it Nesting Body Dwelling Mind explores how our very being is sculpted by our interactions in an environment that we ourselves have fashioned making us our own greatest artifact      Serial Killing on Screen Sarah E. Architecture Sarah Robinson, Juhani Pallasmaa, 2017-03-03 Leading neuroscientists and architects explore how the built environment affects our behavior thoughts emotions and well being Although we spend more than ninety percent of our lives inside buildings we understand very little about how the built environment affects our behavior thoughts emotions and well being We are biological beings whose senses and neural systems have developed over millions of years it stands to reason that research in the life sciences particularly neuroscience can offer compelling insights into the ways our buildings shape our interactions with the world This expanded understanding can help architects design buildings that support both mind and body In Mind in Architecture leading thinkers from architecture and other disciplines including neuroscience cognitive science psychiatry and philosophy explore what architecture and neuroscience can learn from each other They offer historical context examine the implications for current architectural practice and education and imagine a neuroscientifically informed architecture of the future Architecture is late in discovering the richness of neuroscientific research As scientists were finding evidence for the bodily basis of mind and meaning architecture was caught up in convoluted cerebral games that denied emotional and bodily reality altogether This volume maps the extraordinary opportunity that engagement with cutting edge neuroscience offers present day architects Contributors Thomas D Albright Michael Arbib John Paul Eberhard Melissa Farling Vittorio Gallese Alessandro Gattara Mark L Johnson Harry Francis Mallgrave Iain McGilchrist Juhani Pallasmaa Alberto Perez Gomez Sarah Robinson Transforming Issues in Housing Design Kutay Guler,2023-11-30

Anita Bakshi,2017-11-09 This book explores new approaches towards developing memorial and heritage sites moving beyond the critique of existing practices that have been the traditional focus of studies of commemoration Offering understandings of the effects of conflict on memories of place as manifested in everyday lives and official histories it explores the formation of urban identities and constructed images of the city Topographies of Memories suggests interdisciplinary approaches for creating commemorative sites with shared stakes The first part of the book focuses on memory dynamics the second on Nicosia the divided capital of Cyprus and the third on physical and material world interventions Design practices and modes of engagement with places of memory are explored making connections between theoretical explorations of memory and forgetting and practical strategies for designers and practitioners Deaf Gain H-Dirksen L. Architecture is a Verb Sarah Robinson,2021-03-01 Architecture is a Verb outlines an approach that shifts the fundamental premises of architectural design and practice in several important ways First it acknowledges the centrality of the human organism as an active participant interdependent in its environment Second it understands human action in terms of radical embodiment grounding the range of human activities traditionally attributed to mind and cognition imagining thinking remembering in the body Third it asks what a building does that is extends the performative functional interpretation of design to interrogate how buildings move and in turn move us how they shape thought and action Finally it is committed to articulating concrete situations by developing a taxonomy of human building interactions Written in engaging prose for students of architecture interiors and urban design as well as practicing professionals Sarah Robinson offers richly illustrated practical examples for a new generation of designers

The Architecture of Resonance Sarah Robinson,2025-12-04 The profound impact that design has on human experience physically emotionally cognitively or ecologically is now well established And while this experiential and affective turn in architecture is gaining momentum studio time remains primarily dedicated to the creation of buildings as independent objects with minimal regard for the interactions and impacts those buildings may have on their inhabitants and their surroundings This book carefully details an alternative for thinking and designing that shifts attention from abstract formalism and object orientation to the creation of dynamic interacting fields of affective tactile kinaesthetic ecological and social engagement The book articulates resonance as a model and metaphor for the way we interact with our environments The word s literal meaning is to re sound implying a surface or receptive body that amplifies and alters the sound an interdependent relation and process occurring in between Seven kinds of resonance specific to design are detailed theoretically and illustrated with practical and historical examples These design strategies demonstrate the possibilities resulting from shifting attention and resources from the longstanding preoccupation with fixed forms towards structuring and supporting dynamic interactive relationships between the built and the natural and between people and place Seamlessly combining architecture with cognitive science and neuroscience environmental and evolutionary psychology and social theory and anthropology in clear direct and engaging prose this book will be essential reading for all architecture students as well as those in these varied fields
