Direct Licensing and the Music Industry Ivan L Pitt,2015-10-13

This book discusses the economics of the music industry in the context of the changing landscape brought about by innovation technological change and rapid digitization The ability of digital technology to reduce the transaction costs of music copyright licensing has all but destroyed the traditional media business models of incumbent Performance Rights Organizations PROs music publishers record labels and radio and television stations In a climate where streaming services are rapidly proliferating and consumers prefer subscription models over direct ownership new business models such as direct licensing are developing This book provides an overview of the economics of the traditional music industry the technology induced changes in business models and copyright law and the role of publishers copyright holders and songwriters in the emerging direct licensing model In Part One the author examines the economic aspects of direct licensing as an alternative to the traditional blanket license for copyrighted musical compositions with an emphasis on the often monopolistic nature of PROs In Part Two the author focuses on the music publisher and the role direct licensing and competition may play in the changing business models in the music industry and the potential benefits this may bring to copyright holders such as songwriters To compliment this model the author proposes a maximum statutory fixed rate for musical performances to further streamline the royalty process especially where distributors such as Google and YouTube are concerned This book adds to the growing body of literature on the economics of music licensing in the digital age It will be useful to those in the fields of economics and law as well as music executives musicians songwriters composers and other industry professionals who are interested in understanding how technology innovation and competition have reshaped the music industry

The Impact of Online Music Services on the Music Recording Industry Daniel

Wiechmann,2009-10-04 Master's Thesis from the year 2009 in the subject Communications Multimedia Internet New Technologies grade B1 University of Glasgow course Media Management language English abstract The music business is one of the few industries that has trouble growing profits in its transition to digital Digital media downloads mobile music streams music flat rates peer to peer networks and the rise of freeconomics on the Internet are partly responsible for the reduction in CD sales in recent years The question that is most important for the industry is how the widespread of freely available content and illegal downloading can be monetised One approach to model around the main threats to the music industry is the development of online music services Thus this study is an attempt to address the issue of what are the opportunities and challenges posed by online music services for the music recording industry Referring to empirical findings of a consumer survey and expert interviews both opportunities and challenges can be identified for the music recording industry The opportunities surrounding the development of these services are encouraging Deriving from the challenges the music recording industry must ensure that online music services are a supplement to traditional ways of consumption and do not turn into a replacement of physical music consumption Concluding online music services have a small impact on the recording industry The industry might benefit from closely cooperating with online music services by learning more about consumers tastes Nevertheless the online businesses are struggling to break even and revenues from streaming will not overcome legal downloads or CD sales as major revenue stream anytime soon Gospel Music Networking Guide ,1998
