Neurological Disorders Public Health Challenges:

Neurological Disorders World Health Organization, 2006 Although there are several gaps in understanding the many issues related to neurological disorders we know enough to be able to shape effective policy responses to some of the most common. This book describes and discusses the increasing public health impact of common neurological disorders such as dementia, epilepsy, headache disorders, multiple sclerosis, neuroinfections, neurological disorders associated with malnutrition, pain associated with neurological disorders, Parkinson's disease, stroke, and traumatic brain injuries. It provides information and advice on public health interventions that may reduce their occurrence and consequences and offers health professionals and planners the opportunity to assess the burden caused by these disorders. The clear message that emerges is that unless immediate action is taken globally the neurological burden is likely to become an increasingly serious and unmanageable.

Global status report on neurology World Health Organization, 2025-10-12 Neurological conditions are the leading cause of ill health and disability affecting over 1 in 3 people worldwide. The Global status report on neurology presents the first comprehensive global assessment of the public health response to neurological disorders under the Intersectoral global action plan on epilepsy and other neurological disorders 2022-31 IGAP Drawing on data from 102 WHO Member States representing 71% of the world population the report sets 2022 baseline values for the 10 global targets of IGAP. It captures the global status across governance and advocacy, financing, service delivery and workforce access to medicines and technologies, brain health promotion and disease prevention and research and information systems. The analysis reveals critical gaps and implementation barriers underscoring the urgent need for bold and coordinated action to achieve IGAP targets by 2031. To accelerate progress the report offers inclusive evidence based and actionable recommendations for policymakers, IGAP partners and the global neurology community ensuring that people with neurological conditions and their families are at the heart of the response.

Advocacy in Neurology Wolfgang Grisold,Walter Struhal,Thomas Grisold,2019-02-07 Advocacy is a broad term that covers activities aimed at increasing attention awareness information nursing treatment and support to improve the outcome of patients These actions can be focused directly towards patients or indirectly via third parties Although advocacy is present in all medical specialties neurology in particular finds itself in need of strong advocacy tools as the diagnosis treatment long term care and associated resource and social issues have become increasingly complex While some physicians implicitly or explicitly act as advocates there is a lack of holistic research in order to clarify the meaning of advocacy along with concrete methods and strategies Advocacy in Neurology provides an integrated approach to the concept of advocacy in neurology Structured in five sections the book begins by explaining the term advocacy in general before elaborating on the areas of interest within neurology The text goes on to offer concrete strategies and tools for clinicians to deploy advocacy in their daily work and then discusses specific neurological diseases to point out and explain where advocacy is or could be beneficial The book ends with an outlook presentation of results and an ending conclusion Advocacy in Neurology offers a practical perspective on advocacy activities in neurology aiming to show when and why they are important for neurology Bulletin of the World Health Organization World Health Organization,2007
