Notes on Nursing Documentation ,2022 Nursing documentation is not an aim in itself it is a vital source of information for nursing staff and essential for the patient's safety and the quality of nursing care However there are indications that the quality of nursing

documentation is often sub optimal How this quality can be improved was not clear This thesis aims to give a better understanding of the quality criteria and the views of nurses and patients on electronic nursing documentation A systematic review of systematic reviews focussed on what quality criteria nursing documentation should meet Four of the eleven reviews indicate that alignment of the documentation with the phases of the nursing process is a criterion for high quality documentation Furthermore seven reviews report that the use of standardized terminologies improves the quality of nursing documentation In addition three reviews show that electronic documentation is preferred and that the user friendliness of electronic health records is an important quality criterion A nationwide survey showed that nursing staff only feel moderately supported in their documentation by the use of electronic health records Only half of these nursing staff used a standardized terminology The extent to which nursing staff felt supported in their documentation was not associated with the use of a standardized terminology Nursing staff were less positive about whether the information in the electronic health records was accurate and whether the electronic health records were user friendly A mixed methods study showed that community nurses estimated that they spent twice as much time on clinical documentation of the care for patients as on organizational documentation concerning financial aspects The time spent on organizational documentation was related to nurses perceived workload while the time spent on clinical documentation was not Organizational documentation in particular resulted in a high workload among nurses Nursing Documentation in Aged Care Christine Crofton, Gaye Witney, 2004 As another volume in Ausmed's Guide to Practice series of textbooks and audiobooks this is an essential text for all aged care nurses who wish to enhance their documentation skills and deliver higher quality care to the elderly AudioBooks are ideal teaching tools Standards College of Nurses of Ontario, 1996
