Resources in Education ,1980-12 The Politics of Law Enforcement Alan Edward Bent,1974 This book is a study of urban police and their interest in obtaining power as individuals within the organization and collectively within the community Urban society beset by increases in crime and violence and the growing irrelevancy of primary socializing agents must look to the police the institutionalized control agency for the preservation of peace order and tranquility in the community The dilemma of a democratic society is how to give the police sufficient power to perform their role effectively while at the same time maintaining restraints on the police in order to prevent abuses to democratic principles This book looks at the discretionary conduct of policemen and whether adequate accountability measures exist and if not whether they can be realized while allowing for the necessary development of police capabilities in the performance of requisite functions In its focus on the behavior of police officials and the relationship of the police bureaucracy to the urban political system the work strives to be both descriptive and prescriptive The author uses examples from a cross section of American cities and focuses on Memphis Tennessee to illustrate the political events and social factors which effect policing Collective police power is measured by the extent of their discretionary authority and freedom from external controls individual power is perceived by the rational strategies on the part of police officials striving to attain or consolidate their personal power positions in the organization Implicit in the police s struggle for power both personal and collective is the existence of conflict with challenging institutional and environmental forces and actors Official Reports of the Debates of the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada Canada. Sweeney,2016-03-03 The Idea of Home in Law Displacement and Dispossession explores an important set of legal and policy issues surrounding the concepts of home and homelessness taking a growing area of legal scholarship into the new arena of human rights and international law The collection considers the ideas concerning home both in the sense of the dwelling place as a special type of property and territorial claims to homeland which underpin many contemporary legal problems by examining a range of contexts where people are displaced or dispossessed from their homes The essays focusing on dispossession consider themes ranging from mortgage and rent arrears in the UK to responses to the foreclosure crisis in the USA and from eviction for the purposes of economic development in South Africa to the exclusion of asylum seekers from the UK s social housing and welfare provision and within the framework of the European Convention on Human Rights The displacement theme meanwhile examines transnational home issues from the experiences of exiles and refugees in areas of conflict to the impact of the broader context of economic social and cultural rights on attempts to protect housing and home through international law At the heart of each essay the contributors experts from across the fields of law policy and housing rights examine the circumstances in which displacement and dispossession take place and reconsider how law and policy respond to such circumstances with a particular focus on the impact of loss of home for the human person At a time of particular and increasing concern about security of tenure and the role of law and policy in protecting people who are vulnerable to forced eviction The Idea of Home in Law presents a bold opportunity to raise questions about the rights and norms associated with housing and home and to generate new insights for scholarship and for national and international policy debates concerning displacement and dispossession
