When roasting place the meat on the wire shelf over the roasting pan — as one unit in an appropriate shelf position.

*Extra thick joints may take longer to cook than long thin joints. All times given above are for meats that are at room temperature. Times given above are meant as a guide only and may vary according to personal taste.

All meats should be rested for 5 to 10 minutes before serving. This allows juices to settle.

During this time the internal temperature will increase slightly.
