Youth, Identity, and Digital Media David Buckingham, 2007-11-30 Contributors discuss how growing up in a world saturated with digital media affects the development of young people's individual and social identities. As young people today grow up in a world saturated with digital media, how does it affect their sense of self and others? As they define and redefine their identities through engagements with technology, what are the implications for their experiences as learners, citizens, consumers, and family and community members? This addresses the consequences of digital media use for young people's individual and social identities. The contributors explore how young people use digital media to share ideas and creativity and to participate in networks that are small and large, local and global, intimate and anonymous. They look at the emergence of new genres and forms from SMS and instant messaging to home pages, blogs, and social networking sites. They discuss such topics as girl power online, the generational digital divide, young people and mobile communication, and the appeal of the digital publics of MySpace, considering whether these media offer young people genuinely new forms of engagement, interaction, and communication. Contributors: Angela Booker, danah boyd, Kirsten Drotner, Shelley Goldman, Susan C. Herring, Meghan McDermott, Claudia Mitchell, Gitte Stald, Susannah Stern, Sandra Weber, Rebekah Willett. Kids on YouTube

Patricia G. Lange, 2016-09-17 The mall is so old school these days; kids are hanging out on YouTube and depending on whom you ask, they're either forging the digital frontier or frittering away their childhoods in anti-intellectual solipsism. Kids on YouTube cuts through the hype, going behind the scenes to understand kids' everyday engagement with new media. Debunking the stereotype of the self-taught computer whiz, new media scholar and filmmaker Patricia G. Lange describes the collaborative social networks kids use to negotiate identity and develop digital literacy on the Tube. Her long-term ethnographic studies also cover peer-based and family-driven video-making dynamics, girl geeks, civic engagement, and representational ethics. This book makes key contributions to new media studies, communication science, and technology studies, digital anthropology, and informal education. The tenth anniversary edition of a foundational text in digital media and learning, examining new media practices that range from podcasting to online romantic breakups. Hanging Out, Messing Around, and Geeking Out, first published in 2009, has become a foundational text in the field of digital media and learning Reporting on an ambitious three year ethnographic investigation into how young people live and learn with new media in varied settings at home in after school programs and in online spaces it presents a flexible and useful framework for understanding the ways that young people engage with and through online platforms hanging out messing around and geeking out otherwise known as HOMAGO Integrating twenty three case studies which include Harry Potter podcasting video game playing music sharing and online romantic breakups in a unique collaborative authorship style Hanging Out Messing Around and Geeking Out combines in depth descriptions of specific group dynamics with conceptual analysis Since its original publication digital learning labs in libraries and museums around the country have been designed around the HOMAGO mode and educators have created HOMAGO guidebooks and toolkits This tenth anniversary edition features a new introduction by Mizuko Ito and Heather Horst that discusses how digital youth culture evolved in the intervening decade and looks at how HOMAGO has been put into practice This book was written as a collaborative effort by members of the Digital Youth Project a three year research effort funded by the John D and Catherine T MacArthur Foundation and conducted at the University of California Berkeley and the University of Southern California

Hanging Out, Messing Around, and Geeking Out Mizuko Ito, Sonja Baumer, Matteo Bittanti, Danah Boyd, Rachel Cody, 2009-10-30 An examination of young people s everyday new media practices including video game playing text messaging digital media production and social media use Conventional wisdom about young people s use of digital technology often equates generational identity with technology identity today s teens seem constantly plugged in to video games social networking sites and text messaging Yet there is little actual research that investigates the intricate dynamics of youths social and recreational use of digital media Hanging Out Messing Around and Geeking Out fills this gap reporting on an ambitious three year ethnographic investigation into how young people are living and learning with new media in varied settings at home in after school programs and in online spaces Integrating twenty three case studies which include Harry Potter podcasting video game playing music sharing and online romantic breakups in a unique collaborative authorship style Hanging Out Messing Around and Geeking Out is distinctive for its combination of in depth description of specific group dynamics with conceptual analysis

Playful Pedagogy in the Pandemic Emily K. Johnson, Anastasia Salter, 2022-08-26 Educational technology adoption is more widespread than ever in the wake of COVID 19 as corporations have commodified student engagement in makeshift packages marketed as gamification This book seeks to create a space for playful learning in higher education asserting the need for a pedagogy of care and engagement as well as collaboration with students to help us reimagine education outside of prescriptive educational technology Virtual learning has turned the course management system into the classroom and business platforms for streaming video have become awkward substitutions for lecture and discussion Gaming once heralded as a potential tool for rethinking our relationship with educational technology is now inextricably linked in our collective understanding to challenges of misogyny white supremacy and the circulation of misinformation The initial promise of games based learning seems to linger only as gamification a form of structuring that creates mechanisms and incentives but limits opportunity for play As higher education teeters on the brink of unprecedented crisis this book proclaims the urgent need to find a space for playful learning and to find new inspiration in the platforms and interventions of personal gaming and in turn restructure the corporatized surveilling classroom of a gamified world Through an in depth analysis of the challenges and opportunities presented by pandemic pedagogy this book reveals the conditions that led to the widespread failure of adoption of games based learning and offers a model of hope for a future driven by new tools and platforms for personal experimental game making as intellectual inquiry
