From natively digital to digitised data researchers of digital diasporas increasingly find themselves working with a range of disparate digital objects. These digital objects can include anything from hyperlink to timestamps from platform behavioural metrics such as react share or retweet to different media formats such as text image pre recorded or livestreamed videos. Taking these disparate objects into account this book introduces digital methods as research strategies not only for dealing with the ephemeral and unstable nature of tracing the diaspora with digital data but also for reconceptualizing digital diasporas as assemblages and networks of more than human actors. The book also introduces a range of theoretical perspectives and methodological techniques to studying digital diasporas as contingent and processual hybrid collectives of heterogeneous material cultural and practice based assemblages.
