CHAPTER 2

THE TYRANNY OF DIAGNOSIS

Specific Entities and Individual Experience

DIAGNOSIS HAS ALWAYS PLAYED A POWERFUL ROLE in medical practice, but in the past two centuries that role has been reconfigured and has become more central in medicine—like Western society in general—it has become increasingly technical, specialized, and bureaucratized. Disease explanations and clinical practices have incorporated, paralleled, and, in some measure, constituted these larger structural changes.

This modern history of diagnosis is inextricably related to disease specificity, to the notion that diseases can and should be thought of as entities existing outside the unique manifestations of illness in particular men and women; during the past century especially, diagnosis, prognosis, and treatment have been linked ever more tightly to specific, agreed-upon disease

Our Present Complaint Charles E. Rosenberg, 2007-12-26 The renowned medical historian examines the current tensions in American healthcare in this cogently written and well documented book Choice In Our Present Complaint Charles E Rosenberg examines today's dilemmas in American medicine within their historical and social contexts He begins with an insightful look at the fundamental characteristics of medicine how we think about disease how the medical profession thinks about itself and its moral and intellectual responsibilities and what prospective patients all of us expect from the medical profession Rosenberg also considers how ideas of disease causation reflect social values and cultural negotiations His analyses of alternative medicine and bioethics consider the historically specific ways in which we define and seek to control what is appropriately medical At a time when clinical care and biomedical research generate as much angst as they offer cures this volume provides valuable insight into how the practice of medicine has evolved where it is going and how lessons from history can improve its prognosis The Consumer Protection Act, 1986, 1989 Themelios, Volume 33, Issue 3 D.
