Making Sense of Teaching in Difficult Times Penny Burke,Suellen Shay,2017-10-02 Thinking about teaching in educational terms has become increasingly difficult because of the conceptions of higher education that predominate in both policy and public debate Framing the benefits of higher education simply as an economic good poses particular difficulties for making educational sense of teaching Moreover the assumptions about social mobility usefulness and the economic advantages of higher education upon which these conceptions are based can no longer be taken for granted The chapters in this book all wrestle with understandings of education and teaching experiences in changing global national and institutional contexts They explore questions of difference and privilege the social transformation of teaching through transforming teachers contestations of global citizenship and interculturality learning and sensibilities of self in the world the relationship between programme content and student decision making divergent conceptions of learning in international education and subject centred approaches to embodied teaching The book considers the value of disciplinary tools of analysis in addressing contextual challenges in developing societies connections between pedagogies autonomy and intercultural classrooms and ways of countering the marketization of higher education through online teaching communities This book was originally published as a special issue of Teaching in Higher Education Teaching for Experiential Learning Scott D. Wurdinger, Julie A. Carlson, 2010 This book describes how to change the way in which educators conduct business in the classroom Our current educational systems lack ways to reach today's learners in relevant meaningful ways The five approaches in this book inspire and motivate students to learn The authors provide in depth descriptions into these overlapping approaches for experiential learning active learning problem based learning project based learning service learning and place based education Each of these five approaches includes an element of student involvement and attempts to engage students in solving problems The chapters are presented in a consistent easy to read format that provides descriptions history research ways to use the approach and resources This book will help educators transform their classrooms into dynamic learning environments The Aalborg PBL Model -- Progress, Diversity and Challenges Anette Kolomos, Flemming K. Fink, Lone Krogh, 2004 Features thirty teachers and researchers who share their reflections on the practice of the problem based and project organised teaching model PBL which has been applied in the faculties of Engineering and Science Humanities and Social Science at Aalborg University since 1974 Learning and Leading with Technology, 2002

Environmental Engineering Education in Europe Mogens Henze, W. Gujer, B. Pfister, 2000-05-31 The discipline of environmental engineering is young and rapidly evolving Once viewed largely as a sub set of civil engineering with a particular focus on water sanitation it has now grown to engage with all aspects of the human and terrestrial environment Beyond this fact however there is much debate on the definition of environmental engineering and on its intersections and overlaps with other more traditional fields of engineering This development poses problems for those constructing programmes of study for the next generations of environmental engineers These selected proceedings reflect the lively debate that started with differing views on the scope of environmental engineering Though concentrating on environmental education in European countries very fruitful comparisons were drawn with the situation in the USA and Japan The differences in curricular content and educational philosophy are examined as are attempts to overcome the barriers of culture language and the varying modes of certification of practising engineers These proceedings will help to set a framework that can move these debates forward and will be highly valuable to all engineers and educationalists concerned with the future of environmental engineering education and the wider role of the engineering profession The Teaching Portfolio Peter Seldin, 2004 This third edition continues its focus on self reflection and documenting teaching performance and has also been significantly revised and expanded Its straightforward approach practical suggestions step by step instructions and field tested recommendations will prove invaluable to those involved in evaluating and improving teaching Now organized into five parts this edition includes new information on web based electronic teaching portfolios descriptions of how seven colleges and universities have actually implemented portfolios and 22 new sample teaching portfolios from an array of disciplines and institutions All were developed under the guidance of a skilled portfolio mentor Journal of Geoscience Education ,2007 Resources in Education ,1997 Press Summary - Illinois Information Service Illinois Information Service,1995 YC Young Children ,2002
