Activity: How the Railroad Changed the West

Write below:

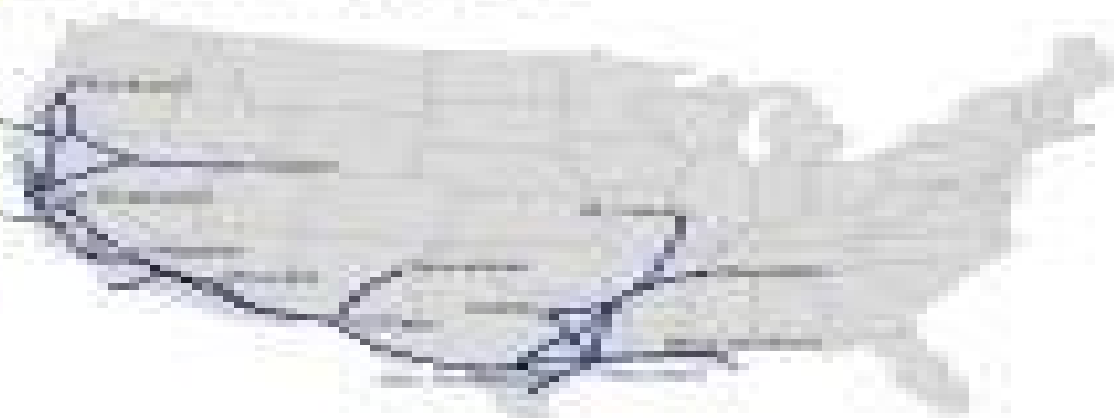

Imagine this: thousands of people are crowded together in a small space, waiting for a train to arrive. The train is made of many cars, and each car is filled with people. The train is moving slowly, and the people are looking out of the windows, watching the landscape. The train is a symbol of progress and a way of life. It is a way of connecting people and places that were once isolated. It is a way of making the world a smaller place.

Before the railroad, people had to travel by horse or by stagecoach. This was a slow and expensive way to travel. The railroad changed all of that. It made travel faster and cheaper. It also made it possible to transport large amounts of goods and materials. This helped to build the West and to create a new way of life. The railroad was a symbol of progress and a way of life. It was a way of connecting people and places that were once isolated. It was a way of making the world a smaller place.
