

Two-Quadrant.—For all alignment operations, connect the low side of the non-oscillate to the receiver chassis, and keep the output as low as possible to avoid a-v-c action.

Calibration Scale on Inductor-Drive-Cord Drum.—The tuning dial is fastened to the cabinet and cannot be used for reference during alignment, therefore a calibration scale is attached to the inductor-drive-cord drum which is mounted on the shaft of the gang condenser. The setting of the gang condenser is read on this scale, which is calibrated in degrees. The correct setting of the gang is degrees, for each alignment frequency, as given in the alignment table.

As the first step in R.F. alignment, check the position of the drum. The 115° mark on the drum scale must be vertical, and directly over the center of the gang-condenser shaft when the plates are in minimum capacity position. The drum is held on the shaft by means of plain bearing which must be securely fastened when the drum is in the correct position.

To determine the corresponding frequency for any setting of the calibration scale, refer to the accompanying drawing which shows the dial with 0-180° calibration scale shown at top and bottom.
