Sea Power and the American Interest John F Morton, 2024-04-15 From the Civil War to the Great War the transatlantic commercial trading system that dated from the nation's colonial times continued in America. By 1900 the sustainability of this Atlantic System was in the material interest of an industrial America on which its aggregate national prosperity depended. The principal beneficiary of this political economic reality was the American moneyed interest centered in the Northeast with New York City at the heart. Author John Fass Morton explains how this country came to put a value on commercial opportunities overseas in support of America's steel industry. Europeans and Americans alike pursued informal empires for resource acquisition and markets for surplus capital and output. Morton looks at how U.S. policy found consensus around the idea of empire taking stock of the opening of Latin American and Chinese markets to American commerce as a means for averting socially destabilizing economic depressions. Republican administrations reflected Wall Street finance and America's other three Madisonian interests commercial manufacturing and agrarian with the Open Door and Dollar Diplomacy policies to establish fiscal protectorates in Central America and the Caribbean. Undergirding Dollar Diplomacy was their commitment to a great navy that would be the insurance for an ongoing American interest that Dollar Diplomacy represented. With the strategic arrival of the petroleum sinew and the Wall Street reassessment of the Open Door in China the Wilson administration tilted toward protecting American investments in the hemisphere notably in Mexico with a Big Navy. With Wilson a progressive foreign policy establishment arrived while continuing to reflect the transatlantic internationalism of the Northeast moneyed interest. As a twentieth century progressive institution the Navy would thus sustain an American expansion that was now progressive. The Navy story from the Civil War to the Great War reveals a truth. The foundational and dynamic sectors of a great nation's economic base its sinews give rise to policy consensus networks that drive national interest long term strategy and the characteristics of its elements of national power. It follows that the attributes of sea power must be material expressions of those sinews allowing a navy better to serve as a sustainable and actionable tool for a great nation's interest.

Alexander Hamilton Charles Conant, 2016-12-03 Alexander Hamilton 1901 biography of the American Founding Father by Charles A. Conant. Alexander Hamilton was an influential interpreter and promoter of the U.S. Constitution as well as the founder of the nation's financial system the Federalist Party the United States Coast Guard and The New York Post newspaper. As the first Secretary of the Treasury Hamilton was the main author of the economic policies of the George Washington administration.

Alexander Hamilton Charles A. Conant, 2017-05-19 The difference between the career of Hamilton in America and that of the two greatest organizing minds of other countries Caesar and Napoleon marks the difference between Anglo Saxon political ideals and capacity for self government and those of other races. Where the organization of a strong government degenerated in Rome and France into absolutism it tended in America under the directing genius of Hamilton to place in the hands of the people a more powerful instrument for executing their own will So powerful a weapon was thus created that Hamilton himself became alarmed when it was seized by the hands of Jefferson Madison and other democratic leaders as the instrument of democratic ideas and those long strides were taken in the states and under the federal government which wiped out the distinctions between classes abolished the relations of church and state extended the suffrage and made the government only the servant of the popular will
