

The background of the cover is a detailed illustration of various microorganisms. At the top left, there is a large purple spherical cell with many fine, pinkish spines radiating from its surface. In the center, there is a blue, star-shaped organism with several long, thin, branching appendages. To the right of the purple cell is a large, yellowish-orange spherical cell covered in numerous small, yellow, hair-like projections. Below the purple cell is a smaller, textured yellow sphere. The bottom half of the cover features a dark blue background with several green, translucent, circular structures that resemble cells or spores, some with internal details visible.
