Money, Payment Systems

and the European Union Gabriella Gimigliano, 2016-12-14 When the term governance is associated with money the mind goes directly to the traditional regulatory paradigm i.e. the nation State Central Banking Currency However over time there has been a steady erosion of the nation states sovereignty also in the area of monetary law This process of erosion is still working from within and externally to the nation State or in other words from upwards to downwards and vice versa Moving from upwards to downwards highly interconnected financial markets have urged the national competent authorities to improve the global level of coordination in terms of sharing regulatory standards supervisory models and risk monitoring procedures In the downwards upwards direction the concept of sovereignty is critically revised from the perspective of new and alternative means of payment thanks to the growth of e-commerce and mobile commerce and new complementary currency projects The European Union is a feasible institutional context in which to investigate the development of the governance of money Indeed the EU considered as a unique economic and political partnership has not laid down a clear cut definition of money but the Member States have been carrying on a varying transfer of sovereignty and in particular of monetary sovereignty This book examines money as a means of payment and a reserve of value within the framework of the European Union with particular attention to community based currencies This book will prove an interesting and informative read for academics students and policymakers with an interest in the development of monetary and financial systems

Challenges of Expanding Internet:

E-Commerce, E-Business, and E-Government Matohisa Funabashi, Adam Grzech, 2005-09-28 2 1 E Government e Governance and e Democracy The term Electronic Government e Government as an expression was coined after the example of Electronic Commerce. In spite of being a relatively recent expression e Government designates a field of activity that has been with us for several decades and which has attained a high level of penetration in many countries.² What has been observed over the recent years is a shift on the broadness of the e Government concept. The ideas inside e Governance and e Democracy are to some extent promising big changes in public administration. The demand now is not only simply delivering a service line. It is to deliver complex and new services which are all citizen centric. Another important demand is related to the improvement of citizen's participation in governmental processes and decisions so that the governments transparency and legitimacy are enforced. In order to fulfill these new demands a lot of research has been done over the recent years see Section 3 but many challenges are still to be faced not only in the technological field but also in the political and social aspects.
