Feminist Activism in the Digital Era Asli Kotaman, Gülmüm Şener, 2025-03-31 Focusing on various regions this collection highlights a rich diversity of feminist activism. The ways feminist movements work, the tools they use, and the outcomes they achieve vary with local dynamics and cultural contexts. In Pakistan digital activists resist gender based violence through social media while in Mexico protests against femicide resonate globally through digital platforms. In Turkey feminist video activism builds collective memory and in Poland women organize online against abortion bans. This diversity showcases the adaptability, creative strategies, and evolution of feminist movements as they navigate opportunities in the digital age. Feminist activism expresses itself in different voices and methods of resistance across regions yet all these variations underline a global unity in the fight for equality. This collection demonstrates the expansive dynamic nature of feminist movements worldwide and examines how local and global struggles intersect.

The Wall Dancers Yi-Ling Liu, 2026-02-03 An eye opening exploration of the Chinese internet that reveals the intricate dance between freedom and control in contemporary China. In the late 1990s as the world was waking up to the power and emancipatory promise of the internet Chinese authorities began constructing a system of online surveillance and censorship now known as the Great Firewall. But far from being a barren landscape the digital world that sprouted up behind the firewall brimmed with new subcultures and tech innovations offering many Chinese citizens previously unimaginable connection and opportunity. Today as the country's leadership intensifies its control of public discourse and Western headlines reduce the Chinese public to a faceless monolith journalist Yi Ling Liu presents an intimate portrait of China's online ecosystem and a crucial lens into the on the ground reality of life there. Tracing the last three decades of the Chinese internet's evolution from its lexicon to its memes to the precise nature of its censorship she equips readers with a critical tool to assess the past, present and future of a global power. Drawing on years of firsthand reporting The Wall Dancers weaves together the stories of individuals navigating China's transformation into both the world's largest online user base and one of its most populous authoritarian states. As these entrepreneurs, activists, artists and dreamers experience the internet's power as a tool for both control and liberation they grapple with universal questions of success and authenticity love and solidarity faith and resilience The Wall Dancers is at once an unforgettable work of human storytelling and a vital exploration of what it means to live with dignity and hope within the technological systems that now shape all our lives

Contesting Austerity and Free Trade in the EU Julia Rone, 2020-11-24 The book explores the diffusion of protest against austerity and free trade agreements in the wave of contention that shook the EU following the 2008 economic crisis It discusses how protests against austerity and free trade agreements manifested a wider discontent with the constitutionalization of economic policy and the way economic decisions have been insulated from democratic debate It also explores the differentiated politicization of these issues and the diffusion of protests across Western as well as Eastern Europe which has often been neglected in studies of the post crisis turmoil Julia Rone emphasizes that far from being an automatic spontaneous process protest diffusion is highly complex and its success or failure can be impacted by the strategic agency and media practices of key political players involved such as bottom up activists as well as trade unions political parties NGOs intellectuals and mainstream media This is an important resource for media and communications students and scholars with an interest in activism political economy social movement studies and protest movements

The Intellectual Activist , 2004 Securing the Digital Frontier Andrew Martin, 2025-04-01

Cyber space is easily the most complex thing humans have ever created With billions of people and devices all connected together vulnerability and compromise are inevitable The complexity continues to grow and with it comes the emergent insecurity brought by an ever developing frontier where digital devices and connected people meet Security challenges present themselves increasingly often and with ever greater impacts This is not going to change anytime soon Although the internet has transformed communication business and social life for the better the construct of cyber space is incredibly fragile and presents endless risk Connecting every corner of our lives to those of billions across the world the frontier is slender between the good and the bad benefit and catastrophe real and fake security and insecurity Cyber security advice can be confusing contradictory and sometimes utterly detached from reality Too easily people feel guilty for not knowing what to do or failing to live up to expectations People particularly business leaders and policy makers must daily make security sensitive decisions sometimes unknowingly without being security experts Securing the Digital Frontier doesn't offer easy answers but instead explains sixteen dimensions of this dynamic problem and its current partial solutions The strong technology of encryption has become commonplace and is a huge benefit if deployed well but how can you tell Programming errors give rise to security problems but why can we not eliminate them Privacy is tied up with security but can the two work against each other Cyber space is international how can domestic laws protect us And what happens when those laws come into conflict with technologies like encryption Why do you need a punctuation symbol and a capital letter in your password anyway Through a grasp of the big picture through technical and human perspectives we can begin to explore ways to unwind some of the complexity and find ways to contain the risk

How I see current authoritarian political changes in Hungary appearing in people's everyday life Sophie Emilie Beha,2020-02-05 Seminar paper from the year 2018 in the subject Politics Other International Politics Topics grade 1 0 E tv s Lor nd University E tv s Lor nd Tudom nyegyetem language English abstract On the following pages I will outline the current political situation define everyday life and then talk about the consequences of change in Hungary Spending my semester abroad in Hungary is more due to chance than it was a personal decision Originally I wanted to go to Istanbul in Turkey In addition to Western culture one thing that interested me most about this country was the lack of press freedom I wanted to know what it's like to live in a country where press freedom and freedom of expression are not self evident However at a relatively short notice a student from the Netherlands was jailed in prison and my university ended its cooperation with Istanbul There were only a few countries to choose from one of which was Hungary And since the situation of freedom of the press and freedom of expression are not exactly the same but similar to Turkey I decided to spend my semester abroad in Budapest After living in Budapest for the past few months I got an insight into daily life in Hungary During my time here the elections took place 8 04 2018 and I found myself in the midst of a political change that of course also influenced everyday life In the time period before the election the country was obviously in a tense atmosphere Election posters lined every street every path Fidesz pens were distributed in the pedestrian zone Fidesz advertisement was in the mailboxes No one talked about their own political opinions in the street but it became visible at the party's electoral posts in Budapest the post of Momentum party at Deak Ferenc Square was almost unremarkable while the Fidesz or Jobbik posts were well under pressure or in bars in left autonomous centers like the G lya or Aur ra Orb n was mocked and elsewhere right wing people tried to intimidate other minded people The elections on 8 April 2018 were a great victory for Viktor Orb n and the Fidesz party Fidesz reached a two thirds majority although the opposition has received more votes thanks to the Hungarian electoral system Viktor Orb n is now in power for another four years and his policies will of course have an impact on citizens everyday lives
