Narrative Architecture Architectural Design Primers Series:

Narrative Architecture Nigel Coates, 2012-12-12 The first book to look architectural narrative in the eye Since the early eighties many architects have used the term narrative to describe their work To architects the enduring attraction of narrative is that it offers a way of engaging with the way a city feels and works Rather than reducing architecture to mere style or an overt emphasis on technology it foregrounds the experiential dimension of architecture Narrative Architecture explores the potential for narrative as a way of interpreting buildings from ancient history through to the present deals with architectural background analysis and practice as well as its future development Authored by Nigel Coates a foremost figure in the field of narrative architecture the book is one of the first to address this subject directly Features architects as diverse as William Kent Antoni Gaudí Eero Saarinen Ettore Sottsass Superstudio Rem Koolhaas and FAT to provide an overview of the work of NATO and Coates as well as chapters on other contemporary designers Includes over 120 colour photographs Signposting narrative's significance as a design approach that can aid architecture to remain relevant in this complex multi disciplinary and multi everything age Narrative Architecture is a must read for anyone with an interest in architectural history and theory

Making Places for People Christie Johnson Coffin, Jenny Young, 2017-02-10 Honorable Mention at the 2019 ERDA Great Places Awards Making Places for People explores twelve social questions in environmental design Authors Christie Johnson Coffin and Jenny Young bring perspectives from practice and teaching to challenge assumptions about how places meet human needs The book reveals deeper complexities in addressing basic questions such as What is the story of this place What logic orders it How big is it How sustainable is it Providing an overview of a growing body of knowledge about people and places Making Places for People stimulates curiosity and further discussion The authors argue that critical understanding of the relationships between people and their built environments can inspire designs that better contribute to health human performance and social equity bringing meaning and delight to people's lives

Smart Cities Antoine Picon, 2015-11-16 As cities compete globally the Smart City has been touted as the important new strategic driver for regeneration and growth Smart Cities are employing information and communication technologies in the quest for sustainable economic development and the fostering of new forms of collective life This has made the Smart City an essential focus for engineers architects urban designers urban planners and politicians as well as businesses such as CISCO IBM and Siemens Despite its broad appeal few comprehensive books have been devoted to the subject so far and even fewer have tried to relate it to cultural issues and to assume a truly critical stance by trying to decipher its consequences on urban space and experience This cultural and critical lens is all the more important as the Smart City is as much an ideal permeated by Utopian beliefs as a concrete process of urban transformation This ideal possesses a strong self fulfilling character our cities will become Smart because we want them to This book opens with an examination of the technological reality on which Smart Cities are built from the chips and sensors that enable us to monitor what happens within the infrastructure to the smartphones that connect individuals Through these technologies the urban space appears as activated almost sentient This activation generates two contrasting visions on the one hand a neo cybernetic ambition to steer the city in the most efficient way and on the other a more bottom up participative approach in which empowered individuals invent new modes of cooperation A thorough analysis of these two trends reveals them to be complementary The Smart City of the near future will result from their mutual adjustment In this process urban space plays a decisive role Smart Cities are contemporary with a spatial turn of the digital Based on key technological developments like geo localisation and augmented reality the rising importance of space explains the strategic role of mapping in the evolution of the urban experience Throughout this exploration of some of the key dimensions of the Smart City this book constantly moves from the technological to the spatial as well as from a critical assessment of existing experiments to speculations on the rise of a new form of collective intelligence In the future cities will become smarter in a much more literal way than what is often currently assumed

Touching the City Timothy Makower, 2014-11-24 Scale in cities is relative and absolute It has the ability to make us feel at home in the world or alien from it connected or disconnected Both large and small scale in cities can be beautiful both are right neither is wrong Whilst accepting that prescription is no answer getting the scale right at an intuitive and sensual level is a fundamental part of the magic of architecture and urban design Touching the City explores how scale is manifested in cities exploring scale in buildings in the space between them and in their details It asks how scale makes a difference Travelling from Detroit to Chandigarh via New York London Paris Rome and Doha Tim Makower explores cities with the analytical eye of a designer and with the experiential eye of the urban dweller Looking at historic cities he asks what is good about them what can we learn from the old to inform the new The book zooms in from the macro scale of surfing Google Earth to micro moments such as finding fossils in a weathered wall It examines the dynamics and movement patterns of cities the making of streets and skylines the formation of thresholds and facades and it also touches on the process of design and the importance of drawing As the book's title Touching the City suggests it also emphasises the tactile that the city is indeed something physical something we can touch and be touched by alive and ever changing
