John J. Zarobell

Oeuvres Completes French Frantz Fanon:

Subterranean Fanon Gavin Arnall, 2020-08-18 The problem of change recurs across Frantz Fanon's writings. As a philosopher, psychiatrist, and revolutionary, Fanon was deeply committed to theorizing and instigating change in all of its facets. Change is the thread that ties together his critical dialogue with Hegel, Marx, Freud, and Nietzsche, and his intellectual exchange with C. S. Lewis, Kojève, and Sartre. It informs his analysis of racism and colonialism, his critique of language and culture, his theory of alienation and decolonization, and it underpins his reflections on Martinique, Algeria, the Caribbean, Africa, the Third World, and the world at large. Gavin Arnall traces an internal division throughout Fanon's work between two distinct modes of thinking about change. He contends that there are two Fanons: a dominant Fanon who conceives of change as a dialectical process of becoming, and a subterranean Fanon who experiments with an even more explosive underground theory of transformation. Arnall offers close readings of Fanon's entire oeuvre, from canonical works like Black Skin, White Masks and The Wretched of the Earth to his psychiatric papers and recently published materials, including his play Parallel Hands. Speaking both to scholars and to the continued vitality of Fanon's ideas among today's social movements, this book offers a rigorous and profoundly original engagement with Fanon that affirms his importance in the effort to bring about radical change.

Intellectuals and Decolonization in France Paul Clay Sorem, 1977 This study of the problems of decolonization after World War II demonstrates the power of the values and lines of argument that seemed to justify colonization even among France's anticolonists and helps explain why the French so stubbornly resisted the loss of their empire. Examining the responses of various intellectuals to a concrete set of problems, Sorem elucidates the importance and limits of the intellectual's role and treats numerous moral and practical issues of continuing concern today.
