Efficiency Arnold Bennett,2015-12-02 If there is any virtue in advertisements and a journalist should be the last person to say that there is not the American nation is rapidly reaching a state of physical efficiency of which the world has probably not seen the like since Sparta In all the American newspapers and all the American monthlies are innumerable illustrated announcements of physical culture specialists who guarantee to make all the organs of the body perform their duties with the mighty precision of a 60 h p motor car that never breaks down I saw a book the other day written by one of these specialists to show how perfect health could be attained by devoting a quarter of an hour a day to certain exercises The advertisements multiply and increase in size They cost a great deal of money Therefore they must bring in a great deal of business Therefore vast numbers of people must be worried about the non efficiency of their bodies and on the way to achieve efficiency In our more modest British fashion we have the same phenomenon in England And it is growing Our muscles are growing also Surprise a man in his bedroom of a morning and you will find him lying on his back on the floor or standing on his head or whirling clubs in pursuit of physical efficiency I remember that once I went in for physical efficiency myself I too lay on the floor my delicate epidermis separated from the carpet by only the thinnest of garments and I contorted myself according to the fifteen diagrams of a large chart believed to be the magna charta of physical efficiency daily after shaving In three weeks my collars would not meet round my prize fighter s neck my hosier reaped immense profits and I came to the conclusion that I had carried physical efficiency quite far enough Mental Efficiency, and Other Hints to Men and Women Arnold

Mental Efficiency Arnold Bennett, 2018-10-16. Mental Efficiency Large Print By Arnold Bennett. They form part of a beautiful and inspiring poem, but I gravely fear that they run counter to the vast mass of earthly experience. More often than not, I have found that a task willed in some hour of insight can not be fulfilled through hours of gloom. No, no, and no. To will is easy; it needs but the momentary bright contagion of a stronger spirit than one's own. To fulfil morning after morning or evening after evening through months and years, this is the very Dickens, and there is not one of my readers that will not agree with me. Yet such is the elastic quality of human nature that most of my correspondents are quite ready to ignore the sad fact and to demand at once what shall we will. Tell us what we must will.
