Salinity Tolerance in Plants: Methods, Mechanisms and Management 2nd Ed B. K. Garg, I.C. Gupta, 2019-03-01

Salinity tolerance in plants is a complex problem encompassing numerous morphological physiological and biochemical processes and adaptations at the cellular sub cellular and whole plant levels The book comprising eleven chapters deals with diverse aspects of salt tolerance including plant response to salinity and sodicity crop tolerance at different growth stages and criteria for evaluating the same The mechanism of salt injury viz osmotic ionic and nutrient imbalance has been dealt with adopting an integrated approach Likewise the recent information on photosynthesis respiration carbohydrate nitrogen and protein metabolism enzyme dynamics and plant hormones as well as nodulation and symbiotic nitrogen fixation in legumes has been elaborated comprehensively Special attention has been given to the interaction between essential nutrients and salinity as it is vital for alleviation of adverse effects of salt stress The synthesis of knowledge on different mechanisms of salt resistance including osmoregulation with organic and inorganic solutes has also been presented Various methods of introducing salt tolerance in plants such as breeding genetic variations physiological approaches tissue culture somaclonal variation somatic hybridation and recombinant DNA technology have been discussed The nature and properties of salt affected soils and groundwaters and principles for amelioration and management of these critical problems have been included in this book Furthermore Afforestation and Agroforestry techniques for salt affected soils with emphasis on salt tolerant tree species and suitable tree crop combinations also find their much needed due space in the present book and suitable tree crop combinations also find their much needed due space in the present book Towards the rational use of high salinity tolerant plants Helmut Lieth,A.A. Al Masoom,2012-12-06 The Symposium on high salinity tolerant plants held at the University of Al Ain in December 1990 dealt primarily with plants tolerating salinity levels exceeding that of ocean water and which at the same time are promising for utilization in agriculture or forestry These plants could be very useful for a country like the UAE where fresh water resources are very scarce and the groundwater available at some places is already very salty More than 60 million woody trees shrubs have been planted so far and more are planned for the inland plains underlain with brackish groundwater These species were no solution for the widely barren shoreline of the UAE Here mangrove species were of potential use and one species Avicennia Marina occurs widely and has been successfully planted for about a decade Converting the tree plantations into economically useful cropping systems is still a problem requiring much research and development The book deals in several sections with conventional irrigation systems using marginal water The species used in these systems are mostly hybrids of conventional crops The irrigation systems however have similar problems as may be expected for irrigation with seawater Papers show the participants experiments in this area The volume serves as a link between scientists working for the improvement of classical irrigation systems and those interested in the application of a new dimension of salinity levels for irrigation water Abiotic Stress Adaptation in Plants ,2010
