Otulaja, Meshach B. Ogunniyi, 2017-09-12 Each volume in the 7 volume series, The World of Science Education, reviews research in a key region of the world. These regions include North America, South and Latin America, Asia, Australia, and New Zealand, Europe, and Israel, North Africa, and the Middle East and Sub Saharan Africa The focus of this Handbook is on research in science education in mostly former British colonies in Sub Saharan Africa and the scholarship that most closely support this program The reviews of the research situate what has been accomplished within a given field in Sub Saharan Africa rather than an international context The purpose therefore is to articulate and exhibit regional networks and trends that produced specific forms of science education The thrust lies in identifying the roots of research programs and sketching trajectories focusing the changing face of problems and solutions within regional contexts The approach allows readers to review what has been done and accomplished what is missing and what might be done next Grant$ for Elementary and Secondary Education ,2000

Student Opportunities in United States Medical Schools ,2000 Science News-letter ,1965 Tech for All Lauren Comito,2019-02-08 How can libraries ensure that patrons from all socio economic and ethnic backgrounds have access to advanced technology training and hardware Everyone knows libraries provide access to computers and the internet for day to day use but many libraries have gone beyond those basic services Makerspaces and advanced tech training are often not equitably distributed between differing communities The digital divide is still very real and by not providing equal access to maker spaces and other similar services libraries may be unintentionally contributing to that divide This book examines how the unequal distribution of resources between communities can limit access to emerging technologies Chapters from librarians across the country give real world examples of libraries going the extra mile to bring more than just email access to their communities regardless of economic status or geographic distribution You ll find practical plans put forward by working professionals who have sought pragmatic solutions to issues of digital literacy Access is a through line in this work as people look at the larger ideas of access as inclusive of training diverse technologies and the time and space to make genuine growth in tech literacy Chapters include working with immigrants low cost laptops for library use deep dives into the underpinnings of the maker movement and developing community focused technology training After reading this book librarians should have practical ideas to address the issue of equity in access to emerging technologies in their own communities
