

Sight Words— Reading Comprehension

Objective: sight words (breakfast, lunch, dinner, snack, serve, service); concepts (restaurant, menu, order, etc.)

Vocabulary
breakfast	snack
lunch	serve
dinner	service

A Restaurant

By Sue Peterson

You can go to a restaurant to eat breakfast, lunch, or dinner and even a snack when you want. Restaurants serve food to you and to other people who go and eat at them. First, you look at a menu that lists all of the foods and drinks that you can order from the restaurant.

Then you tell the waiter or waitress what you want to eat and drink. A "waiter" is the word you use for a man and a "waitress" is the word you use for a woman. Those are the people who take your order and bring you your food.

Restaurants cook the food you order. Some restaurants have lots of foods and some have some foods like only salads or soups, hotdogs or desserts. Some restaurants are open part of the day and only serve food at some times of the day. Other restaurants are open all day and serve food all the time.

Thomas G. Devine, 1989 The purpose of this book on reading instruction in the elementary school is twofold firstly to share with colleagues some of the significant works of research and theory that suggest answers to important questions about reading instruction and secondly to describe specific teaching strategies implied by these answers. The book assumes that reading is a normal human activity in which children may easily engage sees reading always within the context of the other language arts tends to deemphasize reading skills and hierarchies of skills and focuses more than some books on children's literature and content area reading. After a brief preface and introduction the 9 chapters deal with the following topics 1 early reading 2 reading familiar words 3 reading unfamiliar words 4 reading to comprehend 5 reading stories 6 reading in the content areas 7 reading to study 8 reading and the other language arts and 9 organizing for instruction. Each of the chapters ends with an Idea Box which presents a variety of suggested strategies for improving reading instruction and appropriate references for further reading and study.
