Paths To Justice Paths To Justice:

Paths to Justice Hazel Genn, Sarah Beinart, 1999-11 Effective policy making in the administration of justice requires a solid understanding of public behaviour This book presents the results of the most wide ranging survey ever conducted by an independent body or government agency into the experiences of ordinary citizens as they grapple with the kinds of problems that could ultimately end in the civil courts Funded by the Nuffield Foundation the survey identifies how often people experience problems for which there might be a legal solution and how they set about solving them Revealing crucial differences in the approach taken to different kinds of potential legal problems the study describes the factors that influence decisions about whether and where to seek advice about problems and whether and when to go to law In addition to exploring experiences of courts tribunals and ADR processes the study also provides important insights into public confidence in the courts and the judiciary For the first time the study reveals the public s perspective on access to civil justice and makes a significant contribution to debate about how far civil justice reforms coincide with public experience and expectations about resolving justiciable problems Back cover

Route to Justice Audit Commission for Local Authorities and the National Health Service in England and Wales, 2002 The CJS comprises seven different agencies overseen by three government departments and an independent judiciary The study looks at how effectively these work together It examines the problems in the offender pathway using four stories representing different types of offenders to illustrate the complexities of the CJS These stories are not real cases but are factually based and supported by evidence collected through fieldwork There are also examples of good practice throughout the report which demonstrate how various parts of the CJS are trying to cope with and overcome problems within the system The report s recommendations finds that strong leadership better co operation between departments and clear targets for the system as a whole will be vital to ensuring that the problems are overcome to make the system deal with offenders more quickly and efficiently
