

An abstract painting featuring a figure in a dark, shadowed space. The figure is rendered in earthy tones of brown, tan, and blue, appearing to be in a crouched or seated position. The background is a mix of dark blues, blacks, and muted greens, with some lighter, textured areas that suggest a wall or a bright light source. The overall mood is somber and contemplative.

The Novel and the New Ethics Dorothy J. Hale, 2020-11-24 For a generation of contemporary Anglo American novelists the question Why write has been answered with a renewed will to believe in the ethical value of literature Dissatisfied with postmodernist parody and pastiche a broad array of novelist critics including J M Coetzee Toni Morrison Zadie Smith Gish Jen Ian McEwan and Jonathan Franzen champion the novel as the literary genre most qualified to illuminate individual ethical action and decision making within complex and diverse social worlds Key to this contemporary vision of the novel's ethical power is the task of knowing and being responsible to people different from oneself and so thoroughly have contemporary novelists devoted themselves to the ethics of otherness that this ethics frequently sets the terms for plot characterization and theme In The Novel and the New Ethics literary critic Dorothy J Hale investigates how the contemporary emphasis on literature's social relevance sparks a new ethical description of the novel's social value that is in fact rooted in the modernist notion of narrative form This new ethics of the contemporary moment has its origin in the new idea of novelistic form that Henry James inaugurated and which was consolidated through the modernist narrative experiments and was developed over the course of the twentieth century In Hale's reading the art of the novel becomes defined with increasing explicitness as an aesthetics of alterity made visible as a formalist ethics In fact it is this commitment to otherness as a narrative act which has conferred on the genre an artistic intensity and richness that extends to the novel's every word

Entangled Performance Histories Erika Fischer-Lichte, Małgorzata Sugiera, Torsten Jost, Holger Hartung, Omid Soltani, 2022-12-30 Entangled Performance Histories is the first book length study that applies the concept of entangled histories as a new paradigm in the field of theater and performance historiography Entangled histories denotes the interconnectedness of multiple histories that cannot be addressed within national frameworks The concept refers to interconnected pasts in which historical processes of contact and exchange between performance cultures affected all involved Presenting case studies from across the world spanning Africa the Arab speaking world Asia the Americas and Europe the book's contributors systematically expand exemplify and examine the concept of entangled histories thus introducing various innovative concepts theories and methodologies for investigating reciprocally consequential processes of interweaving performance cultures from the past Bringing together examples of entanglements in theater and performance histories from a broad variety of geographical and historical backgrounds the book's contributions build together a broad basis for a possible and necessary paradigmatic shift in the field of theater and performance historiography Ideal for
