The paper describes a dynamical economic model with discrete time and consumer sentiment in the deterministic and stochastic cases. We seek to demonstrate that consumer sentiment may create fluctuations in the economical activities. The model possesses a flip bifurcation and a Neimark-Sacker bifurcation, after which the stable state is replaced by a (quasi) periodic motion. We associate the difference stochastic equation to the model by randomizing the control parameter  $d$  and by adding one stochastic control. Numerical simulations are made for the deterministic and stochastic models, for different values of the control parameter  $d$ .

1. Introduction

The economic empirical evidence [1–3] suggests that consumer sentiment influences household expenditure and thus confirms Keynes' assumption that consumer "attitudes" and "animalic spirit" may cause fluctuations in the economic activity. On the other hand, Dobrescu and Opris [4, 5] analyzed the bifurcation aspects in a discrete-delay Kaldor model of business cycle, which corresponds to a system of equations with discrete time and delay. Following these studies, we develop a dynamic economic model in which the agents' consumption expenditures depend on their sentiment. As particular cases, the model contains the Hick-Samuelson [6], Pua [7], and Keynes [3] models as well as the model from [3]. The model possesses a flip and Neimark-Sacker bifurcation, if the autonomous consumption is variable.

Performance and Constraint Satisfaction in Robust Economic Model Predictive Control Florian A. Bayer ,2017 In this thesis we develop a novel framework for model predictive control MPC which combines the concepts of robust MPC and economic MPC The goal of this thesis is to develop and analyze MPC schemes for nonlinear discrete time systems which explicitly consider the influence of disturbances on arbitrary performance criteria Instead of regarding the two aspects separately we propose robust economic MPC approaches that integrate information which is available about the disturbance directly into the economic framework In more detail we develop three concepts which differ in which information about the disturbance is used and how this information is taken into account Furthermore we provide a thorough theoretical analysis for each of the three approaches To this end we present results on the asymptotic average performance as well as on optimal operating regimes Optimal operating regimes are closely related to the notion of dissipativity which is therefore analyzed for the presented concepts Under suitable assumptions results on necessity and sufficiency of dissipativity for optimal steady state operation are established for all three robust economic MPC concepts A detailed discussion is provided which compares the different performance statements derived for the approaches as well as the respective notions of dissipativity

Cherone, 1978 The purpose of this monograph is to illuminate the central issues of dynamic analysis applied to economic models using a generally accepted language of the study of dynamical systems at a level of sophistication likely to be understood by an economist versed in elementary topology Whether an economic system is governed by a first order difference equation or several simultaneous multivalued partial differential equations its solution is a flow that determines the state of the system given an initial condition and elapsed time Thus the flow of a system is the central concept from which the theory here expounded develops The explicit examples and applications herein are discrete time models but the theoretical results hold for continuous time models as well The supplementary bibliography includes several papers at the frontier of set valued dynamics which may be viewed using the basic concepts defined in this text all of these works involve demonstrating that almost all possible trajectories that a system may follow converge to some set of equilibria The application of set valued dynamical analysis to economic models is provided to engender in the reader an appreciation for the relevance of these concepts to economic theory
